Saudi Arabia's King Faisal slain

Gunned down by his nephew

ASSASSIN'S TARGET

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia was shot and killed today in his royal palace by a "mentally deranged" nephew.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, a staunch friend of the United States and at the same time a bankroller of Arab wars against Israel, was assassinated in his royal palace today by a "mentally deranged" nephew, the official Saudi radio announced.

His ailing brother, Crown Prince Khaled Ibn Abdul Aziz, 62, was proclaimed king shortly afterward.

The gunshot slaying cast a new shadow over the Middle East following the collapse last weekend of a U.S. effort to find a peace settlement in the area.

The official radio in Riyadh, the winter capital of Saudi Arabia, said the nephew, Prince Faisal Ibn Musaed Ibn Abdul Aziz, pulled a gun and shot King Faisal several times in an audience room of the modest palace in the heart of Riyadh after approaching him to offer salutations on the occasion of Prophet Mohammed's birthday, being celebrated today throughout the Moslem world. The audience was for princes and commoners, the radio said.

The nephew was described in the broadcast as the son of Faisal's half brother, Musaed.

The radio added that Faisal, whose age was variously listed as 69 or 70, died later in a hospital of gunshot wounds. The fate of the nephew was not mentioned.

Officials in Washington said they were inclined on the basis of first sketchy information to accept the view that Faisal's asssassination was an isolated blow struck by a deranged nephew, but they added that they did not rule out the possibility of broader political motives for the monarch's death, possibly from outside Saudi Arabia.

Less than two hours later, the radio announced the proclamation of Khaled as king and the appointment of another brother, Prince Fahd, 53, as the new crown prince. Fahd had carried out a number of official missions for Faisal over the past year. Khaled has had heart surgery and there was specuation that Fahd would take over the actual administration of the government, possibly as prime minister.

In Washington and other Western capitals, Faisal had been regarded as a moderating influence in the Arab world. Some U.S. officials privately described his death as a blow to American policy in the Middle East.

The announcement set off repercussions in the world.

Oil shares fell and the U.S. dollar dropped in value in London, where British government circles express concern.

The rapid transition of power in Riyadh appeared designed to quell any possible speculation about a power struggle within the large royal family.

Khaled was crown prince and first deputy prime minister under Faisal. Fahd was second deputy prime minister as well as their minister.

Faisal had been sending Fahd in his place on important missions abroad, such as the signing of a massive economic and military agreement with the United States last year and representing Saudi Arabia at a summit conference of oil producing states in Algiers.

The Riyadh radio said Khaled was proclaimed king after a meeting of five senior royal princes — Faisal's uncle, Prince Abdullah Bin Abdul Rahman, and his four brothers, Prince Mohammed Bin Abdul Aziz, Prince Nasser Bin Abdul Aziz, Prince Saad Bin Abdul Aziz and Prince Fahd Bin Abdul Aziz.

The broadcast added that Khaled "was unanimously endorsed by the royal family."

Faisal was a highly religious man who counseled moderation in the Arab world. But in time of conflict, he poured his nation's oil millions into arms for the Arab war machine.

During the Middle East war of October 1973, Faisal was among the leaders of the Arab oil boycott against the United States and other nations that supported Israel.

Still, he maintained a friendship with the United States and a stiff opposition to communism.

He once said that before he died he wanted to worship in the Moslem holy places in Jerusalem with an Arab flag flying over the city.

The assassination came as a jolt to Washington where President Ford had announced just the day before that the United States would review its policy in the Middle East — after years of solid support for Israel.

'Nicest man in the kingdom' takes over as new ruler of Saudi Arabia

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — The new king of Saudi Arabia, Khaled Ibn Abdul Aziz, was once described by a foreign diplomat as "probably the nicest man in the kingdom." But he hadn't been expected to become king.

The 62-year-old crown prince was proclaimed king of this oil-wealthy land Tuesday after the assassination of his older brother, King Faisal. The next younger brother, Prince Fahd, the new crown prince, had usually been given more important assignments by Faisal and had been widely expected to ascend the throne.

In Saudi Arabia, however, there is deep respect for age, and Khaled is the oldest survivor among the 40 sons of the legendary King Ibn Saud.

Khaled underwent open heart surgery at a Cleveland, Ohio, clinic several years ago. His main interests are said to be hunting with falcons and camel racing.

Though he had been deputy premier under Faisal, his views on the Arab-Israeli conflict, oil and relations with the United States are largely unknown.

Faisal had been expected to play a major role in picking his successor, and it was not known whether he had passed the word sometime before his death.

The Saudi king is officially chosen by a mysterious council known as "Those Who Tie and Unite." It is made up of influential princes, religious, tribal and governmental leaders.

By contrast to the sedate Khaled, 53-year-old Prince Fahd is known as a man who likes to gamble and womanize on foreign trips. He is also considered an honest and intelligent statesman.

Womanizing is tolerated in the strict Moslem world of Saudi Arabia, but the Koran says gambling is "the work of the devil." The gambling was thought to have hurt Fahd with Faisal.

King Khaled will be surrounded by his brothers and nephews as he sets out to rule, for the family holds most of the important government posts.

"The family functions very much as a political party," foreigners have commented.

One prominent commoner, Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, is the oil minister.

Winds blamed

Unexpected rainstorm hits valley

Strong winds which developed unexpectedly over the northern part of the state blew a rainstorm into the valley this morning.

Drizzles were expected throughout most of the day and partly cloudy skies Wednesday.

The storm, which was expected to move across Nevada today, arrived shortly before sunrise, bringing nearly .10 of an inch of moisture to most of the valley by 8 a.m.

It delayed the second day of the 40th annual Pomona Elks Club Baseball Tournament until Wednesday. The tournament involves 32 varsity high school teams and 16 junior varsity clubs.

But it failed to dampen the spirits of several hundred school children from the area, who took part in the eighth

A Brtish government statement exegg hunt sponsored by Forest Lawn Covina Hills.

The children turned out at 11 a.m. today despite the rain, getting a five-day jump on Easter.

"We had to hold the contest, rain or shine," a spokesman for Forest Lawn explained. "Otherwise we'd be eating eggs for the rest of the year."

The precipitation also drove down temperatures from a high of 71 Monday to an expected 65 today and 62 Wednesday.

Assassination sends shock waves, fear through world

By Associated Press

The assassination of King Faisal of Saudi Arabia sent waves of shock and fear today through the money markets and industrial centers of much of the world.

Within hours of the murder, oil prices tumbled on stock markets, the U.S. dollar slumped and fears arose that his death might bring a more radical leadership in the country that produces most of the Mideast's oil.

The Arab world reacted in shock and gloom as news spread of the death of the king considered spiritual leader of Islam and the leading money backer of the Arab cause against Israel.

Israeli government officials studied possible implications of the assassination but made no immediate statement on the death.

European businessmen and diplomats speculated that Faisal's killing might bring new troubles for the world's wobbly monetary system. This could happen, they suggested, if Saudi Arabia were to limit or reverse the flow of billions of petrodollars into Western banks, industries and enterprises.

A British government statement expressed deep shock over the loss of "a great Arab, Moslem and world leader" regarded as a friend of the West.

In the Arab world, government-run radio stations canceled regular programs and broadcast chants from the Koran.

"We are from God and unto Him we return," the Saudi state radio said in announcing the death of the 69-year-old monarch who was the staunchest and wealthiest supporter of the Arab cause.

Egypt's President Anwar Sadat telephoned his condolences to the new king, Khaled Ibn Abdel Aziz, and then announced he will fly to Saudi Arabia for the funeral.

Sadat said Faisal's achievements will "ever stand out as a towering edifice to illuminate paths for Arab generations to come."

Arab foreign ministers suspended their current meeting in Cairo to mourn the king. Jordanian Foreign Minister Zaid Al Rifai, chairman of the session, denounced "this criminal act" and said all prayed Allah would "grant Faisal rest and preserve his kingdom from all harm."

Pedestrians in Beirut listened to reports on the assassination on transistor radios and several Arab diplomats, interviewed by telephone, wept as they commented on the death of Faisal.

At the United Nations in New York, Saadat Hassan, representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization, said: "This is a sad day for the Arabs, for the Palestinians, for the people of Saudi Arabia and for the Moslem world as a whole."

Ambassador Jamil Baroody of Saudi Arabia, who had known Faisal for over 40 years, said, "He was always for self-determination of peoples. In keeping with this, he thought the people of Palestine should exercise their right of self-determination."

FBI denies Patty's fingerprints found

CHICAGO (AP) — The FBI office in San Francisco, heading the search for Patricia Hearst, denied today any basis for the Chicago Tribune report that fingerprints of the fugitive newspaper heiress and two others were found in a motel in upstate New York.

Assassination a severe blow to U.S. policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The assassination of King Faisal of Saudi Arabia comes as a severe blow to U.S. policy in the Middle East, American officials said today. President Ford called him "a close friend of the United States."

Reporting to Congress on the failure of his diplomatic mission to the Middle East, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said "the United States plans a major effort to prevent renewed hostilities" in the area.

Neither Kissinger nor Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller were able to say whether they would attend Faisal's funeral as representatives of the President. "I don't think so," Kissinger told newsmen.

Basing their judgment on "initially sketchy" information, U.S. officials were inclined to accept the view that Faisal's assassination was a simple, isolated blow struck by a deranged nephew.

They did not, however, rule out the possibility of broader political motives for the monarch's death, possibly from outside Saudi Arabia.

Police agents on college campuses ruled unconstitutional by State Supreme Court

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Posting of undercover police agents on college campuses is "government snooping in the extreme" and unconstitutional, the California Supreme Court has ruled.

The unanimous decision Monday said police officers cannot pose as university students merely to compile intelligence dossiers on students and professors for possible future use.

"The crucible of new thought is the university classroom; the campus is the sacred ground of free discussion," Justice Mathew Tobriner wrote in the decision. "Once we expose the teacher or the student to possible future prosecution for the ideas he may express, we forfeit the security that nourishes change and advancement."

The court held that unless undercover campus surveillance is needed to further a compelling government interest, it violates state and federal guarantees of freedom of speech and California's constitutional guarantee of privacy.

"The censorship of totalitarian regimes that often condemns developments in art, politics and science is but a step removed from the (recently begun) surveillance of free discussion in the university," the state Supreme Court decision said.

The ruling marked the first interpretation of the 1972 California constitutional amendment guaranteeing the right of privacy to "all people."

The decision sends the case of Hayden White, a UCLA professor, back for trial to determine if there is a compelling governmental interest to warrant such interference with constitutional rights.

White had appealed a lower court dismissal of his suit seeking a court order prohibiting Los Angeles Police Chief Ed Davis from spending public funds for campus police surveillance.

Ford mulls veto of tax cut, erase congressional recess

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is weighing a possible veto of a recession-fighting tax cut — a move that could prompt him to call Congress into special session next week.

Because the tax measure likely to emerge from a Senate-House conference is far larger than Ford recommended, it was learned that he was leaning heavily toward a veto and thinking about calling for a special session that would erase congressional plans for an Easter recess.

Because of the tax controversy and international developments, particularly in the Middle East, it was understood Ford might postpone or forgo altogether his own unannounced plans to take an Easter holiday in Palm Springs, Calif.

The President had been expected to leave Washington for Palm Springs Saturday.

Congressional negotiators met again today in an attempt to agree on a tax-cut bill after Treasury Secretary William E. Simon reportedly warned that Ford will veto the tax bill if it "reached the proportions" of the measure passed by the Senate.

House and Senate members of the tax-cut conference committee were trying to work out a compromise between different tax-cut bills passed by both chambers.

The conferees concluded eight hours of closed-door talks Monday with no major agreement and then departed through a side door. Aides said they wanted to avoid newsmen.

Simon told the lawmakers earlier that "if the bill reached the proportions of the present Senate bill, he had no doubt that the President will veto it," according to Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli, R-Pa., one of the conference members.

"... Exactly at what point he would or will not veto it, I think, depends on what is in it, not the size of it," Schneebeli said.

Schneebeli's comment followed one Sunday by Ford's press secretary, Ron Nessen, who said on the CBS "Face the Nation" program that the President has not ruled out the possibility of vetoing the bill, although he will not decide until he sees what final form it takes. Nessen said "the President is basically opposed to all the amendments" which go beyond a clean and simple antirecession tax cut.

Previous administration statements have criticized the various congressional tax-cut proposals but have given no firm indication that a veto was being considered.

12 execs get jail, fines in fund hoax

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A former executive vice president of Equity Funding Corp. of America and 11 other former company officials have been sentenced to prison terms or fined in connection with a massive hoax that resulted in the firm's failure.

Samuel B. Lowell received the heaviest sentence in U.S. District Court here Monday. He was sentenced to five years in prison despite his plea that his role in the Equity Funding fraud had "destroyed my mental health."

A 13th defendant scheduled for sentencing Monday, Richard Gardenier, was allowed to change his plea to conspiracy charges to not guilty. The new plea was permitted because Gardenier's initial guilty plea was made on the recommendation of his lawyer, who has since admitted he is not an attorney.

Benjamin Lipscombe, Gardenier's lawyer, is under a state grand jury indictment on charges of forging court documents and drug prescriptions.

Others sentenced Monday with Lowell, the highest-ranking of the defendants, were Michael E. Sultan, Equity Funding controller, sentenced to a two-year term; David J. Capo, vice president of investor services, two years;

Lawrence G. Collins, vice president of Equity Funding Life Insurance Co., two years; William Mercado, executive assistant to Lowell, six months in jail and three years' probation; Donald McClellan, assistant to Capo, six months in jail and three years' probation;

Lester M. Keller, an Equity Funding Life officer, three months in jail and three years' probation; Allan L. Green, a computer programmer for Equity Funding Life, three months in jail and three years' probation; Jerome H. Evans, senior vice president of Equity Funding, two years' probation and a fine of $5,000;

William E. Symonds, an Equity Funding Life officer, three years' probation and a fine of $1,000; Mark Lewis, an Equity Funding Life employe, three years' probation; and Gary S. Beckerman, president of Equity Funding's advertising subsidiary, three years' probation and $1,000.

U.S. District Court Judge Jesse W. Curtis said Mercado, McClellan, Keller and Green would be allowed to work at their present jobs under the federal prison system's workfurlough program while serving their sentences.

Former company chairman Stanley Goldblum and five other top executives of the firm were sentenced to prison a week ago. Goldblum drew an eight-year term and a $20,000 fine.

Equity Funding collapsed two years ago after investigators found the firm had falsely inflated its assets and sold fake insurance policies to other insurance companies.

WILLIAM LANCASTER, of Covina, Republican assemblyman, will relate "The Real Story in Sacramento" when he speaks to members of the La Verne Rotary Club Thursday noon at Castaway Restaurant, Pomona. Lancaster, whose 49th District is the largest in territory in Los Angeles County and includes a considerable portion of the valley, has been a strong supporter of property tax reforms and financial aid to education. He recently was elected to his second term in the Assembly.

Chaffey acts to set up own compensation plan, trim graduation credits

A workers' compensation self-insurance program officially was approved by Chaffey school board Monday as was a "contingency plan" lowering high school graduation requirements by 20 credit units over the next two years.

The self-insurance plan becomes effective April 1, is set up initially to cover a three-year period and carries with it an "excess insurance" policy to protect the district against catastrophe losses. Premium of this coverage was set at $6,300 a year.

Under the self-insurance plan, the school board agreed to deposit into the fund for 1975-76, 1976-77 and 1977-78 amounts of money equivalent to what would have been the normal workers' compensation insurance premiums during those years, and agreed that any balance in the fund at the end of each school year be carried forward into succeeding fiscal years.

The money in the fund may be spent only for administration of the program by R. K. Kautz & Co., allocated loss expenses, payment of premiums for the excess insurance and the payment of claims made against the fund.

The board further agree that on July 1, 1978, a study would be made to determine funding necessary for the self-insurance program in succeeding years.

"This district stands to make a lot of money off this plan," said board member John Schnepp, "and not just pay out into the pockets of insurance companies."

Board President G. A. Chalfant pointed out that Chaffey district, in going into the self-insured program, was joining the majority of groups. School districts and cities are in to self-insured programs, he said, because state compensation premiums have risen so high.

"The longer we put off going self-insured," said Chalfant, "the more we pick up the tab for smaller districts that cannot afford to go self-insured."

Failure of the March 4 district tax override made necessary the "contigency plan" to lower graduation requirements and drop from a six-to a five-period day in Chaffey district-high schools.

On a motion by board member Robert Bonde, the requirements will be lowered from 220 to 210 for seniors in 1976 and to 200 in 1977. Under this plan, 10 credit units would be dropped in English and 10 in social studies.

In a separate motion by Bonde, the board accepted the concept of a recommendation made by the District Curriculum Steering Committee (DCSC) calling for 220 units of credit for graduation "under normal fiscal conditions."

That meant, he explained, sufficient funds to provide a full six-period day.

Ulla Bauers, chairman of the DCSC, urged the board to "cut non-essentials" and not just English and social studies.

Bauers said that one group of district employes was willing to settle for "less than an 8 per cent pay increase" and "put a moratorium on one step increase" if equal sacrifices would be made by the administration and if there was an understanding that present requirements would be maintained.

Chalfant said these suggestions would be discussed in meet-and-confer sessions with employes.

The DCSC also stressed that the board should be supportive of career education, consumer education, setting competency levels for achievement in all subject areas and consider giving credit for course challenges, off-campus and cross-discipline credit.

In another action, the board accepted with regret the retirement resignation of assistant superintendent of educational services Lyle Fry effective June 30.

Fry joined the district in 1951 as a social studies teacher. He was assistant principal of Montclair High School when it opened in 1959, and principal in 1961. He was moved to Ontario High School as principal when it opened in 1966. He has held his present position since 1971.

In a following action, the board abolished Fry's position for 1975-76 as well as positions of director of psychological services and special education, and assistant principal of adult education because of the district's financial condition.

State poll finds 74% supporting death sentence

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — There is greater support among Californians now for capital punishment than at any time in the past two decades, the California Poll reported today.

Seventy-four per cent of 504 persons interviewed said they favored the death sentence for serious crimes. Twenty-one per cent said they opposed execution while 5 per cent indicated no opinion.

In 1956, the first year off the survey, about 49 per cent favored capital punishment but the number of supporters has grown steadily since that time.

Ten years ago, 51 per cent favored retaining the death penalty.

"The basic arguments pro and con have changed little over the years, save for their intensity," said pollster Mervin Field. "Those who favor doing away with the death penalty argue that it does not act as a deterrent to crime and that capital punishment runs counter to the tenets of a humane and enlightened society.

Bay fireman to end 1,600-mi. commuting

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I embarrassed the fire department, and I didn't want to do that," said Lt. Harold J. Colen, apologizing for the furor caused by his 1,600-mile commute to his fireman's job here.

But Fire Chief Keith Calden said Colen, 45, apologized when he came to work Monday and said he would move back to San Francisco.

Colen refused Monday to discuss the matter further. He began commuting from Yuma, Ariz., to his $19,300-a-year fireman's job here two months ago.

Thieu orders S. Viet leadership reshuffled

BULLETIN

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The United States, using contracted commercial airliners, will begin Thursday an airlift of 10,000 refugees a day from Da Nang, Western diplomats said today.

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu today ordered his prime minister to reshuffle the cabinet into a "fighting government" and invited "qualified anti-Communist nationalists" to participate, Radio Saigon announced.

The order comes on the heels of a three-week-old North Vietnamese offensive which has forced the Saigon government to abandon 11 provinces and the major northern city of Hue.

Da Nang, the country's second largest city, was gripped by fear as the North Vietnamese tightened their hold on the northern quarter of the country.

The announcement quoted Thieu as ordering the move "to better cope with the emergency situation in our country and to answer emergency requirements in essential areas."

He said these areas were "the defense of the country, (to) provide refugee relief, stabilize the urban areas, increase production to support the battlefront, mobilize the national spirit for the anti-Communist struggle and defeat the North Vietnamese invaders."

Associated Press Correspondent Peter Arnett reported that the South Vietnamese army was forming a new defense line around Da Nang. He said the southern anchor was at Thanh Binh, 25 miles to the south, and the northern perimeter beyond the Hai Van Pass, perhaps 15 to 29 miles to the north.

Vietnamese sources said the northern perimeter was being reinforced with marines.

Da Nang, where U.S. combat troops first entered the Vietnam War in March 1965, was tense and jammed, its population of half a million more than doubled by refugees. Streets were clogged. Panicky civilians swarmed the Air Vietnam terminal, trying to get out of the city. Some soldiers deserted and joined their families on overloaded boats for Saigon.

Official sources told Arnett it did not appear that the Communists would try immediately to take Da Nang. They said intelligence reports indicated no units were targeted against the city.

Between 300 and 400 Americans were still in Da Nang, including families of diplomatic personnel and civilians working under contract for the South Vietnamese government, Arnett reported.

The abandonment of Hue, 50 miles north of Da Nang, and two other provincial capitals, Tam Ky and Quang Ngai to the south, extended the Communist command's control to about 50 per cent of South Vietnam's 66,000 square miles, including 11 of the country's 44 provinces.

The population of those 11 provinces numbered more than 3 million, or about 15 per cent of the country's total 20 million, before the government's reverses this year. But about a million refugees are reported to have fled to government lines, creating another grave economic problem for the Saigon regime.

Faisal was prime force in oil embargo

By Associated Press

Most of the oil in the world is in the Middle East and most of the oil in the Middle East is in Saudi Arabia. That gave King Faisal the upper hand in enforcing the oil embargo that prompted last year's energy crunch.

It also allowed him almost total control of the price of oil on world markets.

Saudi Arabia claims recoverable crude oil reserves of 138,000 million barrels. That's 22 per cent of the world's nearly 628,000 million barrels of reserves.

The United States imports more oil from Saudi Arabia than from any other country in the Middle East, with Saudi Arabian oil supplying 3.5 per cent of all the petroleum used in the United States.

Saudi Arabia was a prime force behind last year's Arab oil embargo against the United States and other industrialized nations. American oil experts say that Faisal, who was assassinated today, was determined to make the embargo work in an effort to pressure the United States to force Israel to give up Jerusalem.

But Faisal and his oil minister Shiek Ahmed Yamani also were moderating forces within the larger Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, a group made up of most of the oil exporting countries in the world. Faisal admired U.S. capitalism and opposed communism. The United States considered Faisal a friend and his death may jeopardize the basically friendly relationship.

In October 1973 the price of oil delivered aboard a tanker in the Persian Gulf was about $2.30 a barrel. At the time of the embargo, Faisal ordered production cut and raised the price to $7.60. Several smaller hikes followed, bringing the price of oil to $11.65 as other members of OPEC followed Saudi Arabia's lead.

The price rise meant that OPEC countries were getting about $110 billion a year from oil importing countries — $60 billion a year in pure profit.

Despite the embargo and price increases, Saudi Arabia and Faisal remained on friendly terms with the United States. Many said that without Faisal the price of oil would have gone even higher. Indeed throughout 1974 his oil minister proposed that the oil cartel reduce prices somewhat because of the severe effect the hikes were having on the industrialized world. Prices didn't come down, but they didn't go up either.

There is little question that Saudi Arabia by itself could change the price of oil on world markets. Although the country has often been a leader in boosting prices, many experts say its overall policy is aimed at a long-term increase in production rather than a short-term increase in prices.

Saudi Arabia's population is small — 8 million — and the country cannot spend huge sums of money rapidly. It must look for slow, long-term growth.

The country has been cutting production lately because of a decrease in demand from an industrialized world suffering recession and promoting conservation. The production cutback generally has propped up the price of oil.

But there are countries, such as Indonesia, Nigeria and Iran, which need to expand oil sales. They need every penny they can get from oil as fast as they can. If demand shrinks too much, they will be pressured then to cut the price of their oil and undercut the cartel.

If they did that, Saudi Arabia could easily increase its production, lower its price and and force the breakaways into line, most oil economists agree.

$3,000 in school's auto shop equipment lost in burglary

Burglars snipped off a padlock and pried open the metal doors of the Ontario High School auto shop at 901 W. Francis St. in Ontario and removed more than $3,000 in power tools and automotive equipment, police reported.

The burglary was discovered Monday by auto shop instructor Joel Gillingwators when he returned to the school. Gillingwators called police when he discovered that someone had used boltcutters to snip off a padlock to one door of the shop and pried open another door. The high school has been closed since Friday for Easter vacation.

Police reported that the burglars took numerous hand tools, power tools, and other equipment from the shop. Also missing is a valve grinder and a paint spray gun.

Gillingwators told officers that each piece of equipment stolen from the shop had the initials "OHS" engraved on it. He said it would take some time to determine exactly what was taken, but added that the loss could go as high as $4,000.

In CHINO, three men, one armed with a handgun, robbed an Ontario man of a small amount of cash, a tool box and car jumper cables in the area of C and 11th streets Monday night.

Jose Baez of Ontario told police he was getitng out of his car when three men approached him. One of the men held a handgun and ordered him to hand over his wallet. Baez said he complied and the men removed some cash from the wallet and then took a tool box and the jumper cables from his car.

Baez described all three men as Caucasians in their mid-20s. He said one of the men wearing a white T-shirt and a black beanie hat had a white bandage on his left arm. The other two men were wearing dark clothing.

A 19-year-old Pomona man was arrested by ONTARIO police Monday night after he was found hiding in field behind the Combee Electric Co., 1619 E. Holt Blvd., which had been burglarized minutes earlier.

Rodney Lee Guzman of 2473 Lyndale Ave., was booked in the West End Jail this morning on suspicion of burglary and several warrrants for failure to appear on traffic citation.

Police said a silent burglar alarm was tripped in the electric company about 9:30 p.m.

Officers discovered that burglars had gained entrance to the building by prying open a rear door. Several go carts valued at $2,650 were missing. A short time later, with the aid of a San Bernardino County sheriff's helicopter, police found Guzman hiding in some grass in a field behind the building. A second man was seen leaving the area in a pickup truck, but police were unable to locate him or the truck.

ONTARIO police are questioning a 24-year-old Ontario man suspected of robbing two masseuses at the Professional Massage Parlor, 1500 W. Mission Blvd. of a small amount of cash Monday night.

Joe Jess Martinez of 751 N. Parkside Ave., Ontario, was arrested about 8 this morning in his apartment and taken to the Ontario police station for questioning.

The masseuses, Patricia Ann Davis, 26, and Laurie May Berg, 22, called police about 9:45 p.m. to report that a customer had just robbed them of a small amount of cash. The two women told police that the man had come to the business earlier in the evening, and, after a short time, pretended to jump out of the window. Later the robber reappeared in the parlor with a knife and ordered the women to hand over the cash.

The women told officers they had seen the suspect's drivers license and were able to give the officers his name.

Poison, not food flavoring sold by mistake; 19 ill

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A mistakenly sold poison has made 19 persons sick and caused county health officials to issue a warning that still missing supplies of the poison could kill.

Health officials said Monday that about 50 pounds of deadly sodium nitrate remained unaccounted for after being sold by mistake as the popular food flavor enhancer monosodium glutamate.

The poison was sold at two Philippine food centers in Los Angeles, one at 1144 W. Temple St. and the other at 4921 Santa Monica Blvd.

Dr. Ralph Sachs of the health department said anyone who bought the substance should return it to the store or to a health department office.

Only about one-fifteenth of an ounce can be fatal, said a health department physician, Dr. Louis Mahoney. The doctor said early treatment is vital. Symptoms can include vomiting and turning blue.

It was not immediately determined how the mixup occurred.

Those stricken included an unidentified family of three treated at Queen of Angels Hospital and 16 persons treated at Glendale Adventist Medical Center after becoming ill at a birthday party.

All of those who became sick later recovered.

Hundreds look on as thugs slay man at carnival

NEW YORK (AP) — Hundreds of carnival-goers looked on as six young thugs pummeled, stabbed and fatally shot the father of five at a crowded church fair in the Bronx.

But police say they can find only "three or four people who are willing to admit they saw anything." All were the dead man's friends and coworkers.

Bartolo Rivera, 29, a taxicab mechanic, had stopped off at the carnival Sunday night with friends on his way home from work.

"They were playing the games and got briefly separated for a few moments," Detective Carlos Ortiz said. "One of Rivera's coworkers then turned around and saw Rivera on the ground with the youths beating and stabbing him."

A shot was fired and three youths fled with Rivera's wallet and $40, the detective said. Police theorized that Rivera had flashed some money and the youths tried to grab it.

"Anything can happen at a carnival," Ortiz said.

Employment up at nuclear units

SAN CLEMENTE (AP) — About 1,000 workers are now on the job in the $2 billion construction of two nuclear generating units at the San Onofre Nuclear Generating Station.

Southern California Edison Co., announcing the job level Monday, said employment is expected to soar over 2,400 in the next two years. The weekly payroll is running about $360,000 on the Orange County project.

Crew of sunk fishing boat rescued at sea

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Twelve crew members of a San Diego based fishing boat are safe after being rescued by a merchant ship off the Baja California coast, the Coast Guard said.

The crew of the Shari D was plucked out of the Pacific Ocean off Cabo San Lazaro by the SS Texaco Georgia Sunday, after their 95-foot fishing boat sank, the Coast Guard said.

All were reportedly unharmed, including the boat's 62-year-old skipper, Howard Day. They are reported en route to Long Beach aboard the freighter.

Area lawmakers seek reserve, dealer protection, exploration

Solons level legislative guns on oil firms

The oil industry is the target of new legislative proposals being introduced by three area legislators.

These seek to establish a national petroleum reserve, protect service station dealers, and ensure that oil depletion allowances are used for new exploration.

Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., seeks to have petroleum reserves developed as consistent with the nation's energy needs.

"This legislation would shift jurisdiction over reserves such as Elks Hill near Bakersfield and Alaska from the Navy to the secretary of interior," he explained.

He noted the Elks Hill oil field has "languished" under naval control while the nation's economy has suffered. "The Interior Department is best suited to manage these oil reserves in conformance to over-all national economic and energy policy."

Montoya said one of his measures would allow service station dealers to set their own business hours and end pressures by major oil companies for them to stay open all hours to sell off the gasoline surplus.

Assemblyman Joseph B. Montoya, D-60th Dist., has introduced three bills to "stop the games major oil companies are playing with independent service station dealers and the public."

Recalling last year when the gasoline shortage had customers waiting in line and caused price increases again and again, Montoya said the market is now flooded with the fuel.

"Clearly the one thing we can see is that whether there is too much gas or too little gas, the oil companies keep their profits and the burden falls on the independent station dealer and the consumer."

And the final bill would guarantee the independent dealer his "day in court." One major oil company, he said, includes in its agreement that a dealer waives his right to a jury trial.

"Even though this clause is illegal, the fact that it is written in the lease intimidates the dealer to a point that most won't go to court," said Montoya.

Sen. Ruben Ayala, D-32nd Dist., last week asked the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee to postpone until April 9 action on an oil depletion allowance bill. He wants to offer an amendment to ensure that any depletion allowance would be for new exploration and nothing else.

The proposed bill seeks to close a major tax loophole by abolishing the allowance given major oil companies.

Ayala said his goal is to make sure that not even a small company gets a tax break without earning it by drilling new wells.

"Presently oil companies are given a 22 per cent allowance on their gross revenues for exploration whether they explore or not," he said.

"This is just another form of government subsidy or welfare at the taxpayers' expense. And I'm against it," said Ayala.

HANDY DAN HOME IMPROVEMENT CENTERS OPENS NEW STORE

Handy Dan Home Improvement Centers, Inc. today opened the 56th store in its ten state chain, a 45,000 square foot facility in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

The store, which is the fourth to be opened in Colorado, is also the fourth new store to be opened in the current year. Earlier, stores were opened in Brownsville, Texas; Des Moines, Iowa; and Springfield, Missouri.

Handy Dan is on schedule with its plan to open additional stores located in Kansas City and Horolulu later this year.

The Colorado Springs store will be managed by Mr. Jerry Walker. Mr. Walker transferred to Colorado from Angels Home Improvement Centers in Pomona, California.

The Handy Dan chain operates 20 stores in the state of California under the Angels Do-it-yourself banner. Angels has been well known in this area for many years as one of the leaders in the do-it-yourself field.

HAIR CARE SHOP OPENS AT CHINO SHOPPING CENTER

A new hair care shop — which once would have been a barber shop—Called Super Hair is one of the new businesses in the Country Store shopping center, Chino. It's a shop that caters to both men and women.

It's a man, Al Espinoza, who has the cosmetology license and there is a woman barber, Beth Reid, who is ready to cut men's hair. Ernie Espinoza is the third member of the staff. Ernie and Al worked together in a shop in Pomona prior to the last six years. Miss Reid is from a family of barbers. Her father, mother and brother are all barbers and stylists.

All hair care is by appointment only—permanents, coloring, streaking, styling or just haircutting.

MAN BITES DOG!

With recent waves of rising food prices utility rate hikes, and higher fuel prices threatening to engulf us, an annuoncement about prices by a local retailer hardly seems newsworthy. But this time, our worst expectations are not met and the bite will not be put upon us again. This time, a local business has decided to take a stand and fight higher prices head-on. And like the old story of man biting dog, that is worthy of attention.

Shoe Market is a local retailer of popular-priced shoes for all members of the family. They started in business during a time when self-service was a new concept to the selling of shoes and their prices were considerably lower than the traditional type of shoe store. As competitors caught on to the self-service way to sell shoes, the price differential between Shoe Markets and these later competitors narrowed somewhat.

But now, Shoe Market is reaffirming its desire to be the place where quality shoes can be purchased for less than any other store in town. At the same time, Shoe Market advertising is informing customers in an open and frank manner why Shoe Market has adopted this new policy. They say they want to make more money and that their new GUARANTEED SAVINGS program is an experiment to gain enough new customers and sell enough more pairs of shoes so that they will make more money even though Shoe Market prices and gross margin per pair are lower than others.

The Shoe Market GUARANTEED SAVINGS experiment first makes it clear that Shoe Market's everyday price will be lower than any competitor in town on the same shoe. Shoe Market states its intention to take mark-downs on any identical shoe that a competitor may have regularly priced lower than theirs so that Shoe Market can retain its competitive edge.

When a competitor advertises a shoe at a "special" price for a short period of time, Shoe Market will more than match the special price. If Shoe Market carries the same shoe, they will sell it to anyone who brings in the competitors ad and they'll sell it to them for 10% less than the competitor's "special" price. In effect, any competitor who advertises the same shoes that Shoe Market carries will be advertising for Shoe Market.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) —A board responsible for overseeing foreign investments in the United States, including those from the oil-rich Middle East, will be created by the Ford Administration, according to Deputy Secretary of State Robert S. Ingersoll.

The board will make policy recommendations to the President on investment questions and coordinate governmental authority over those investments, he said in an address to the Southern Council on International and Public Affairs.

The proposal comes at a time when some business leaders and federal officials are expressing concern that foreign investors might take control of U.S. corporations.

He said, "Contrary to popular impression, America is not being inundated with investment money from oil-producing nations, although we must recognize the potential from this source."

Foreigners had $18 million invested in this country at the end of 1973, compared with $107 billion in American investment abroad in 1974, Ingersoll said.

PASADENA (AP) — Jacobs Engineering Co. of Pasadena said Wednesday that it has been awarded a contract by Eagle-Picher Industries to engineer and design a $4.8 million plant expansion at Lovelock, Nev., to process diatomaceous earth.

Stanley L. Krugman, president of Jacobs, said the new facility will increase production of diatomaceous earthe, which is widely used as a filtering medium in the wine and other industries, by 50 per cent.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An agreement has been reached for the merger of Harvest Industries, Inc., into Zoecon Corp., the companies said Wednesday.

Terms provide for the exchange of .34 of a share of Zoecon common stock for each share of Harvest.

Harvest markets animal health and nutritional products. Zoecon manufactures insect control products.

Almanac for today

By Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, March 25, the 84th day of 1975. There are 281 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1821, Greek patriots began a revolt against domination by the Ottoman Empire. The uprising ended 12 years later with the stablishment of the independent Kingdom of Greece.

On this date—

In 1634, colonists under Lord Baltimore reached Maryland.

In 1865, in the Civil War, Confederate forces captured Fort Stedman in Virginia.

In 1883, a revolution broke out in Haiti.

In 1941, in World War II, Yugoslavia joined the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Alliance.

In 1947, 111 miners were killed in a coal mine explosion at Centralia, Ill.

In 1964, Britain donated an acre of land at Runnymede, the site of the signing of the Magna Carta, for a memorial for President John Kennedy.

Ten years ago: The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. led 25,000 civil rights demonstrators to the state capitol building in Montgomery, Ala.

Five years ago: Israeli and Egyptian planes were engaged in heavy combat along the Suez Canal.

One year ago: U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet leaders were conferring in Moscow on the deadlock in negotiations on limitations of strategic arms.

Today's birthday: Actress Nancy Kelly is 54.

Thought for today: One great use of words is to hide our thoughts — Voltaire, French writer, 1694-1778.

Men on increase in nursing field

NEW YORK (UPI) — More men are pursuing the expanding opportunities in industrial nursing, according to Dorothy M. Saller, executive director of the American Association of Industrial Nurses.

The number of men graduates of nursing schools almost doubled between 1970 and 1974, and a number of blue chip corporations now have male nurses on their payrolls.

Thinking like declarer aids

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There is an old story about the man who found a lost horse. He explained he tried to think like a horse and then looked where the horse would go.

West's queen of hearts holds the first trick. South has taken some time to think before playing from dummy. While West does not know how to think like a horse he has learned to think like a declarer. He leads a second heart and dummy's king wins the trick.

Now south leads a spade from dummy and produces the king. If West is really on the ball he has already figured out South's problem. South misses both black aces and wants to knock out West's ace first. So West ducks that king of spades without any ruffles or flourishes. Note that if West takes the ace it is all over for the defense. It is also all over for the defense if West hems and haws before ducking.

No go back to South. He may still play a second spade, but the chances are he will decide that East holds that ace and will lead a club. East wins and clears the hearts.

Eventually, West gets in with that spade ace and cashes two heart tricks.

RADIO ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentina broadcasts news and cultural information in seven languages to an estimated 10 million persons abroad. Broadcasts began in 1958 and are beamed by short wave to Africa, Europe, Asia and North America. The languages include Spanish, Portuguese, French, English, Italian, German and Japanese. Plans are underway for broadcasts in Arabic.

Blind since birth, she's now clerk-typist for IRS

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Sue Duff, blind since birth, couldn't find work as a classical singer.

So she became a clerk-typist. For the Internal Revenue Service.

"You don't really know how complicated tax laws can be until you read them," she says. "It's such a wealth of words. The words themselves aren't so complex, but it seems you're just surrounded by them."

Miss Duff at 26 holds a master's degree in music, but says she couldn't find a job in that field. A year ago she took a civil service exam and in September went to work for the local IRS office.

Now she does her tax-law reading in braille and much of her typing from dictation. She says her next goal is to become a service representative, aiding others in preparing their tax forms.

She says that equality is up to the individual.

"Don't you think a person has to believe he or she is equal before anything can happen?" she said in an interview.

Juke box, pin ball repair class offered

An evening course in the repair and maintenance of juke boxes and pin ball machines will be offered by the Valley Vocational Center in Industry beginning March 31.

Tuition is $7 and there is a $2 per semester charge for parking.

Those wishing additional information, or wanting to register, may call the center office at 968-4638.

Center Asst. Director Don Roth said technicians to repair juke boxes, pin ball machines, amusement devices and cigarette machines are in constant demand.

The course also is taught days.

Parents urged to emphasize bike safety

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Parents should give children proper instruction in bicycle safety when they receive a bike as a gift, say Allegheny County police.

Two factors high on the safety priority list are fitting the bike to the child who will ride it and equipping the wheeler for maximum safety.

The police suggest giving riding lessons near home, preferably on empty lots, bicycle paths or marked areas, before permitting long trips.

They added that bicycles should have headlights, tail lights or reflectors, warning bells, chain guards and coaster brakes.

Does Lindora think Losing Weight is easy?

It is not a simple task for a patient to reach and maintain "lean weight" for life. First the patient must have an honest desire to cure his problem then accept professional guidance from trained Medical Doctors.

Lindora's unique 10-week treatment and training program will teach patients how to reach and maintain their "lean weight" for life. A safe and practical plan, with proper nutritional diet, and continual emotional support. New audio and sub-liminal visual aids are used to motivate the patient. The entire program is under the strict supervision of Medical Doctors, specialists in Bariatric Medicine.

Have you ever eaten a palm tree? You have, if you have ever eaten a soup or a pudding made with sago flour!

Sago (pronounced SAY goh) is a starch found in the soft, pithlike center of the sago palm which grows in such tropical lands as Malaya and the East Indies.

The sago palm grows to a height of 30 feet or more.

To make sago flour, the trees are cut down as soon as the flowers appear. If the fruit is allowed to form the starchy pith is used up by the developing fruit, leaving the trunk a mere hollow shell and causing the tree to die.

The starchy pith is chopped out and ground to a powder. A single tree may yield 700 or more pounds of pith.

The powder is then kneaded with water over a strainer. The water carries off the starch and leaves the woody fiber behind.

After a few washings, the sago flour is ready for use. It is shipped to food processing plants and is put in puddings and soups.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first younster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/O this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

City estimated to have 44,137

Chino population leaps 3,000 in 6 months

The Chino area continues to lead the West End of San Bernardino County in population growth by adding nearly 3,000 more residents during a recent six month period.

And county officials add that the area's gain has been nearly 10,000 since the federal census was completed in April of 1970.

In a population report, officials estimated Chino's number of residents at 44,137 last January, compared to 34,151 in 1970 and 41,416 last July. Based on various factors, they expect the population to reach 52,000 by 1990.

For the entire county, officials estimated the population last January at 740,282. This is a gain of 10,245 residents from July and 58,049 from 1970.

Nearly half the county's gain for both reporting periods has been in the West End communities of Chino, Ontario, Montclair, Upland, Alta Loma, Etiwanda, Cucamonga, Guasti, Mt. Baldy and Wrightwood.

Officials reported a West End population of 215,587 last January. This reflects a gain of 30,161 since the 1970 count of 185,426 and 4,794 since July's 210,793 estimate. Planners project the West End population to reach 260,700 by 1990.

The West End growth is credited partly to high construction and land costs in both Orange and Los Angeles counties.

With the Pomona, Orange and San Bernardino freeways extending into the area, residents find they can live here and commute to employment centers in the two counties.

Regarding Chino, officials said a number of new industries locating there may also be attracting more families.

As the Chino area serves as an extension for Orange County, the Upland and Alta Loma areas provide an extension for Los Angeles County, they said.

Upland's population was estimated at 45,186 in January, an increase of 871 since July and 7,322 since 1970. And the adjoining Alta Loma-Etiwanda area had 6,045 residents in January, 908 more than July and 5,356 more than 1970.

The only West End community showing a decrease is the tiny farming area of Guasti where the number of residents dropped from 3,094 in 1970 to 2,970 last January.

Population for other West End areas include: Ontario, 68,905, up 418 from July and 5,290 from 1970; Montclair, 29,112, up 11 from July and 513 from 1970; Cucamonga, 6,045, up 42 from July and 601 from 1970; and Mt. Baldy-Wrightwood, 2,324, up 25 from July and 217 from 1970.

Construction of new dwelling units has kept pace with the population growth as 1,324 homes were added from July to January and 11,004 from 1970.

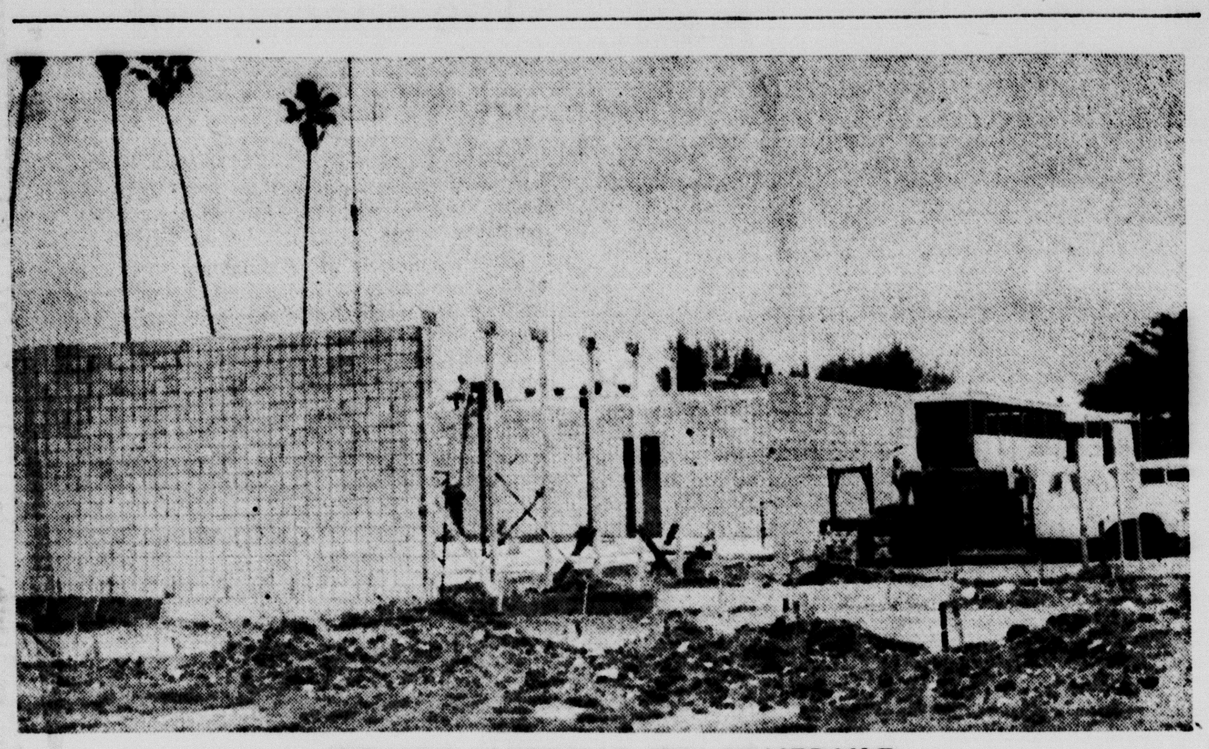
The biggest gain was noted in the Chino area 678 where homes were built from July to January and 2,877 from April, 1970.

This was followed closely by Upland with 15;063 in January. The total is 286 more than July and 2,832 more than 1970.

Dwelling units of other communities include: Ontario, 22,660, up 122 from July and 1,937 from 1970; Montclair, 9,132, up three from July and 559 from 1970; Alta Loma-Etiwanda, 5,097, up 203 from July and 2,089 from 1970; Cucamonga, 1,689, up 12 from July and 208 from 1970; Guasti, 1,060, the same as July and 1970; and Mt. Baldy, Wrightwood, 2,124, up 24 from July and 202 from 1970.

County planners said they base their population estimates on new housing permits and sewer, gas and electrical connections.

A new census will be taken next month in San Bernardino County to provide an actual count, they added. These figures may be available by August.



POLICE BUILDING ON SCHEDULE

Construction on the new addition to the Montclair Police Department is proceeding on schedule with workmen erecting the walls, despite some labor union problems with the contractors last month. The new addition will be completed by July 1 and add approximately 10,000 square feet of space.

Good Friday holiday off? Yes in Pomona; no in S.D.

Two city councils in the valley took opposite stands Monday night on the question of Good Friday holiday time for city employes.

In San Dimas the City Council wasted little time in stripping employes of the holiday on the advice of City Atty. Norman Oliver, while in Pomona the City Council overruled similar advice from City Atty. Patrick Sampson.

The furor over the traditional three-hour holiday is the result of a recent California Court of Appeals ruling that Good Friday is not a legal holiday for state employes because it violates the Constitution's division of church and state concept.

Although the ruling named only state employes, city attorneys seem unanimous in their belief that the ruling will become applicable to all levels of government in California.

Sampson told the Pomona council that the city could be liable for a taxpayers' lawsuit if employes were given time off with pay. The council, nevertheless, voted to keep the holiday because the court ruling does not specifically include city employes. Pomona City Hall, therefore, will be closed Friday from 12 to 3 p.m.

In Chino last week, the City Council comprised by allowing employes a "floating" three-hour holiday that can be taken at the individual's discretion.

Montclair has taken a similar position, although the city's personnel manual prohibits using the three hours except on state holidays, thereby eliminating Good Friday.

Officials in Claremont, La Verne and Upland said the holiday will not be observed.

In those cities where holiday time will not be paid, however, employes will be allowed to take time off without pay or by using vacation time.

Pomona City Councilman Charles Bader questioned whether the same court ruling that affected Good Friday wouldn't also be applicable to Christmas, because of its religious nature.

Sampson informed the council that the court had foreseen that problem, ruling that Christmas was a legal holiday not because of its religious basis, but rather because of its commercial nature.

Missing valley businessman, wife found safe off Chile; ship damaged

Don Douglass, president of the Backpacker Shop in Claremont, and his wife, Renee, a Montclair High School teacher, were reported safe in their sailboat off the coast of Chile today after having been reported missing at sea since Feb. 27.

The couple's oldest son, Jeff, 18, was contacted by the Coast Guard search and rescue officials in Long Beach Monday and given the good news.

John Porter of Claremont, who has served as the couple's ham radio contact, said this morning that he had not been able to reach the Douglasses since Feb. 27 but will continue to try.

"I heard from Jeff that the Douglasses are O.K. and would assume that they are making for a small bay in Chile for repairs," Porter said.

He added that he thought that the couple, who was sailing around the world on their 42-foot ketch sailboat, "the Friendly Dolphin," will arrive at Puenta Areanas on the tip of South America by Friday.

"I plan to try to contact them in port," added Porter. He said he wasn't too concerned at first when radio contact was lost but became apprehensive when Mrs. Douglass' family in northern California was contacted by the government and informed of the missiong couple and the search procedures.

Search was started by the Chilean government in late February after the U.S. State Department said a distress message was received from the boat which was last known to be off the coast of Chile.

When the Chilean searchers were unable to find any trace of the boat, the search was called off and the United States took over responsiblity for the search of the area last week.

But it was a British merchant ship that found the couple Sunday, gave them provisions and radioed authorities that the Douglasses were alive. The boat, reports indicate, had taken on water and rough weather knocked out the radio service.

The couple, whose home is in Cucamonga, left San Pedro on Oct. 12 for the world tour. They had already visited La Paz, Acapulco and Easter Island on the first 8,500-mile leg of the journey.

The couple's sons, Jeff, 18, Sean, 15, and Mike, 17, are residing with friends in the valley while their parents make the trip.

S.D. council settles issue of remodeling school: no!

The San Dimas City Council refused to accept a parks and recreation commission recommendation to hire a structural engineer for study of the old San Dimas Elementary School site.

The unanimous refusal was accompanied by remarks about the blighted condition of the condemned buildings, promises to the surrounding residents and the high costs involved in rehabilitating the auditorium.

Bryce Bailey, director of parks and recreation, reported that he, Building Supt. Richard Kumer, structural engineer Charles Oldham and Public Works Director Frank Basile made a cursory estimate of $50,000 for rehabilitation of the auditorium.

The parks and recreation commissioners last morth discussed using the auditorium to accommodate physical recreational activities, social events and a theater and meeting hall. They recommended a more detailed report and precise price for rehabilitation from a structural engineer.

Councilman Kieth Brogan first questioned the recommendation, saying it was a duplication and costly. Councilman Marvin Ersher echoed his concerns and added that the neighborhood residents were repeatedly told the site would be a community park and the buildings would be demolished.

He noted that it would be poor policy for the council to reverse that position without suggestions from the community. "Is this to be a community park or a facility to serve the entire city?" Ersher asked.

City Manager Bob Poff pointed out the condemned structure has the problem of being both a blight on the community and too costly to rehabilitate. Mayor Jim Lough, reminding council of the suit over the purchase price of the site from Bonita Unified School District, said it is a question of time, priorities and expense of not only rehabilitation but also yearly maintenance.

"I'm really not at all in favor of doing anything with it, but tearing it down," said the mayor.

"If you spend $50,000 to rehabilitate this building, you'll have a $50,000 used building of little market value," said Basile.

"The only thing holding the building together is the grafitti on the walls," Lough quipped.

In other action, the council:

—Voted 3-2, with Councilmen Brogan and James McLean voting no, to raise the cart rental fees from $7 to $8 at the San Dimas Canyon Golf Course and to increase green fees, both effective April 1. The action is an attempt to offset the deficit operation of the course. The course, operated by a joint powers authority with La Verne, had a $24,000 deficit last month.

—Agreed by a vote of 4-1, with McLean dissenting, to purchase the Mariposa Park site from the state for a cost of $6,000. The park will be developed at a later date.

2 judges get a lesson in law: not retroactive

Superior Court Judges Kenneth Ziebarth and Clifton Allen and Henry Mizysak, an unsuccessful candidate for the Fourth District supervisorial seat, were losers Monday in an attempt to recover their filing fees.

They were among 10 candidates in last year's San Bernardino County elections petitioning the Board of Supervisors for recovery of the filing fees. The state Supreme Court recently declared the fees unconstitutional.

The supervisors, on the advice of the county counsel's staff, asserted that the ruling was not retroactive. The filing fees for the 10 candidates — which included eight winning judges — ranged from $346 to $565.

Area cities getting $785,718 from state

A total of $785,718 will be distributed to valley cities as the March allocation of sales use tax receipts, the State Board of Equalization has announced.

Individual city allotments are: Claremont $32,194; La Verne $19,739; Pomona $235,357; San Dimas $22,663; Walnut $5,924; Chino $63,013; Montclair $206,140; Ontario $123,523; and Upland $78,165.

Robbery victim

Paralyzed cabbie moved to hospital in Arizona

Roderick Carter Johnson, 32-year-old Claremont man paralyzed when he was shot in the back during a robbery attempt Dec. 27, has been transferred from Pomona Valley Community Hospital to a hospital in Arizona for rehabilitative therapy.

Johnson was flown from Brackett Field in La Verne to Phoenix, Ariz., where he entered the 700-bed Good Samaritan Hospital. One hundred three of those beds are persons requiring treatment similar to Johnson's.

A nurse from the Pomona hospital and two from the Phoenix hospital accompanied Johnson on the flight. He remained on a respirator en route.

Johnson, now a quadraplegic, was working as a taxi driver at the time of the shooting. He was called to an apartment complex at 680 W. San Jose Ave., Claremont, where he was to pick up a fare. Instead, two youths tried to rob him, police reported. He was near death many times during his hospital stay in Pomona where his condition fluctuated between critical and serious.

Johnson was no ordinary tax driver, however. He had a master's degree in government and was pursuing a higher degree. He is the stepson of Dr. Gordon L. Barclay of Albany, N.Y., a psychologist and director of the Research Foundation for Mental Hygiene there. Barclay planned at first to have Johnson sent to a New York hospital for rehabilitation, but decided later on the one in Phoenix.

Two teen-agers were arrested in the shooting after a $2,500 reward was posted. One of the pair was quoted as saying, "I just shot the guy," when they asked why Johnson was gunned down.

Mayor is only puffer left

Council will seek smoke ban as balance of power shifts

A ban on smoking at Claremont City Council meetings will be sought tonight by Councilwomen Eleanor Cohen and Clare McDonald.

Mrs. McDonald said that she has always been against smoking at council meetings, but couldn't get the required council support.

When Mrs. Cohen joined the council, Mrs. McDonald discovered she had gained some support.

The councilwomen discovered at the last council meeting that Councilman Frank Hungerford had quit smoking, which left Mayor Bertye Smith as the only smoker on the council. Councilman Gene Block doesn't smoke.

"I think the non-smokers have put up with this long enough. Now it is time for the smokers to recognize they're in the minority," Mrs. McDonald said.

She said she would be willing to have a break every hour for the persons who can't break the habit of smoking, but recognized that such persons can always leave the meeting for their smoking.

Mrs. McDonald noted that last year when she tried to get a law passed prohibiting smoking at the Village Theater, she couldn't gain the support.

One other valley council has already faced the issue. Montclair councilmen recently banned smoking during their meetings.

10 seek Montclair chamber positions

Ten persons are vying for the five open seats on the Montclair Chamber of Commerce board.

The nominating committee selected the following persons for nomination to the five 3-year terms on the board: the Rev. Don Bray of Bethany Baptist Church; Newman Draper of Draper Mortuary; Harold Hohnstein of Hohnstein Disposal Service; Joe Parris of Parris-Robins Real Estate Brokerage; Richard Pearson of Midway Building Materials; Joe Pugh of United California Bank; Linde Rice of Citizens Savings and Loan; Leonard Ryan of Broadway Store; Eldon Skiles of S & S Pool and Patio; and Gene Stallians of Paul's Yellow Cab Co.

Ballots now out to chamber members must be returned by April 2.

Controversy settled

Monroe St. barricade falls

The six-month controversy over the closure of Monroe Street at Orange Grove Avenue was settled by the Pomona City Council Monday night with an order to reopen the street to through traffic.

The council's action came after some half dozen residents questioned the validity of the city's environmental impact report (EIR) for the closure.

"The EIR was very poorly prepared," claimed Arnold Edmunds, a resident of Bradford Street, Edmunds said that information should have been gathered from all the residents of the area, not just those living on Monroe.

Don Bollinger, representing the owner of a laundry at Orange Grove and Garey avenues, argued that the council had never received enough evidence to warrant the street being closed.

Several residents spoke in favor of the closure, repeating their original claim that traffic on the street was too heavy before the closure and that the Orange Grove and Monroe intersection is dangerous.

Their arguments failed to sway the council, however, as only Councilman Charles Bader voted in favor of closing the street permanently.

The remainder of the council voted to open the street and also refused to certify the EIR on the project as complete.

The council approved the city's participation in the Pomona School District's "Operation Increased Attendance." The anti-truancy program involves picking up school aged youths who are on the streets during school hours and having the police transport them to a designated site and turned over to school district personnel.

In another action involving youths, the council voted to change the start of daily curfew from 11 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The council approved an agreement with the architectural firm of Cashion-Horie for the design of ramps for the handicapped at the City Hall complex.

Robert Weigh was named to the Vehicle Parking District Commission, replacing George Sinclair, who had resigned.

The council named Jimmy Day as acting superintendent of streets.

State justice will address area group

Associate Justice of the State Supreme Court Frank K. Richardson will address local judges and attorneys at the annual Judges' Night program at Griswold's in Claremont Friday night.

The purpose of the program is to honor judges of various local courts, Shernoff said.

La Verne accident injures 2 drivers

Two women were injured in La Verne late Monday afternoon in a two-car crash at Second and G streets which also broke off a fire hydrant.

Driver Gladys S. Naylor, 57, 902 Groff St., Pomona, suffered broken ribs, cuts and bruises. Her passenger, 22-year-old Mariza Naylor, 2432 Fifth St., La Verne, suffered minor cuts. Mrs. Naylor was reported in satisfactory condition today at San Dimas Community Hospital. Mariza was released after treatment.

The other driver, Edward D. Fleming, 45, 358 E Bonita Ave., San Dimas, was uninjured. The intersection has no stop signs, police said.

Fischer-Karpov: a chess lesson

Bobby Fischer has, quite appropriately, until April 1 to avoid making a fool of himself. Again.

On that day, Fischer's resignation as world chess champion will become effective and binding and will automatically go to Russia's Anatoly Karpov, unless Fischer has agreed to play Karpov in the scheduled title match in Manila.

Fischer refuses because of a nitpicking difference over the rules with FIDE, the International Chess Federation.

Everybody else in the world wants the match to continue until one player has won 10 games, but with the series limited to 36 games. In the event of a 9-9 tie, the title would remain with the defender.

Fischer's demands are identical, except that he wants no limit on the number of games played.

Of such nonsense are international crises made in the world of chessdom.

For this, Fischer renounced the title he won from Boris Spassky in Rekjavik in 1972, where most Americans first heard about this strange fellow with the erratic behavior but forgave his antics because of his genius (or perhaps because of the novelty of it all).

John McCann, president of U.S. Chess Masters, has sent the following telegram to Fisher:

"Our members and I urge you to reconsider and to play Karpov. Your brilliant accomplishments would benefit our nation, especially during the present climate of sports and political activity between the U.S and U.S.S.R. It is vital that you again contribute to America's supremacy and thereby benefit the nation's youth. The influence that your favorable action would have is immeasurable. Conversely, it would be wasteful to abdicate your title since you have persevered too long and hard for it."

Fischer is expected to ignore the plea, and therefrom may flow a greater benefit to the nation's youth than another Fischer contribution to America's "supremacy."

This is the lesson that if you persist in behaving like a perfect ass, sooner or later, no matter how brilliant you may be, you have to take the consequences.

Coastal re-run

The first draft of an epoch plan for California's coastline is now before the public and certain to trigger at least a partial re-run of the arguments aired two years ago when voters were considering Proposition 20. The difference is that this time Californians will be considering a permanent and precise land use plan with highly predictable environmental, social and economic impacts — not an interim building moratorium and study program.

With public access and use of the coast as its highest priorities, the 300-page preliminary proposal of the statewide Coastal Zone Conservation Commission will now go to six regional commissions for fleshing out on local specifics and additional policy recommendations. Regional public hearings throughout the state will largely determine the final shape of the package the commission will submit to the 1976 legislature for approval.

Still to come are recommendations on such critical problems as funding, administration and enforcement of a final plan. These will largely evolve from the upcoming hearings so while the physical problems and local views may vary widely in communities from Crescent City to San Diego, the regional meetings will each be of statewide importance.

The lawmakers who must eventually judge the plan and the public which must live with it, pay for it and hopefully enjoy its results would be well advised to observe closely as the coastal plan is pieced together.

Fair is fair

There were a few double takes when California Taxpayers Association executive vice president Kirk West took Governor Edmund G. Brown, Jr. to task for not dealing equally with school employes and state employes.

"While I heartily approve of Governor Brown's philosophy of belt tightening for government, I believe the sacrifice must be equalized between state and local government," West said. Then came the zinger:

"State government is not being asked to tighten its belt the same number of notches as California's public schools. Governor Brown has proposed an 8.5 per cent pay increase for state employes for 1975-76. School district employes, under tax limitations established in 1972, will average far less than half that increase."

West concluded, "If necessary, the governor should reduce the pay offer to state employes in order to equalize pay increases at the local level. Otherwise too much of the sacrifice is at the local level, especially for school districts."

What the man is saying is that what's fair is fair!

'Why do we have to seek revenge?'

I have lived in Pomona for all my life. It has consisted of living among the people (Mexican-American). Which I have come to the point of trying to understand, it has come to where not even my own race can be trusted.

It has become frightening to me, to walk the streets, to ride in my car at night.

We have come to the conclusion to kill one another, over some insane ego trip. Are we trying to show off our machismo?

This has been going on for years, and will continue until every chicano who looks and acts bad should be locked up forever or sent to Cambodia to fight, if he feels the urge to kill.

I have been a strong believer for the RAZA. We are all struggling for something, but will never reach the peak of our destiny. If it's the one who has made it, he is usually called a taco, or for one that hasn't made it is called the vato loco and has never known the life of humanity, his only life has been the barrio.

I myself feel that I could be the shield to stop human killings. Because someday I will wake to the fact, that someone I love dearly will face the mark of death, over some senseless killing.

So why do we have to seek revenge, will it earn you a gold star or a step closer to heaven?—Susan C. Gomez, Pomona.

Abortion is murder

I have just read the article "Baby is not a fetus; it's a human being" and wholly agree. Abortion is simply murder and a living fetus at any age is still a baby.

I cannot understand how any woman can willingly want to kill her own baby. There are too many ways to prevent that baby from ever being conceived.

If a woman cannot use some kind of preventive measure and she becomes pregnant, she should at least give the helpless little baby a chance to develop to its fullest potential.

An opportunity to become some other woman's adopted child is far more desirable than being dead. There are too many women and men who are waiting anxiously to become adoptive parents.

Babies are so helpless and an abortive murder is the most heinous crime today. The Supreme Court had no right to legalize this ancient massacre. God will be our judge. —Bonnie DeJournett, Honolulu, Hawaii.

Soviets sought lost U.S. torpedo

WASHINGTON — Deep in the ocean off the Bahamas, the Navy four years ago lost a supersecret Mark 48 torpedo that the Soviets were eager to get their hands on.

The circumstances were reminiscent of the crisis the Soviets had faced in 1968 when one of their subs sank in the Pacific with secret equipment aboard. Last summer, the Central Intelligence Agency recovered part of the sub but lost the section that contained the secret equipment.

Navy sources now say the 18-year-old Soviet sub was obsolete and had little intelligence value. But this was not true of the missing Mark 48, which had been built by hand for sea trials under the tightest security.

At a cost of $1 million apiece, the torpedos were designed to track and strike enemy ships with lethal accuracy. They could be fired from U.S. submarines and destroyers far away from the target ship.

But in the early tests, some Mark 48s purred so loudly that the sound threw the sensitive tracking mechanism out of whack. Others suddenly plunged into a dive or swerved off the designated path.

The Soviets, apparently aware of the wayward wanderings of these early sophisticated Mark 48s, dispatched trawler spy ships to the Bahamas test area. They tried to monitor the tests and, if possible, to snare one of the top-secret torpedos.

The capture of a Mark 48, of course, would have advanced the Soviet torpedo technology by years and would have taught them what countermeasures to use against America's deadly undersea weapon.

Then one day, as the Navy nervously watched the Soviet intelligence ships in the vicinity, a Mark 48 nose-dived to the bottom. It settled in an ocean hole about 6,000 feet below the surface and there was no way to self-destruct it.

News of the loss was secretly flashed to the Pentagon and the top brass held urgent meetings to decide what to do. We got an inkling of what had happened and reported on May 25, 1971, that a Mark 48 had "got away" and that it had thrown the Navy into "a panic." We quoted a Navy source as confiding to us: "We were afraid a Russian sub would get the thing."

Now we have dug out the rest of the story, which the Navy has suppressed for four years. The Pentagon brass anxiously discussed how to keep the Soviets from retrieving the misfired Mark 48. "We were in a stew," a Pentagon official now recalls.

It was first proposed that an attempt be made to recover the precious torpedo, much as the CIA tried last summer to bring up the lost Soviet sub. But oceanographic and salvage experts, who were brought into the secret meetings, questioned whether recovery would be possible in water more than a mile deep.

In the end, the experts agreed to abandon the Mark 48 on the ocean bottom. "We studied the way we'd made the fish and figured it would implode," explained a participant in the secret meetings. "We decided it would cave in on itself because the pressures were so great down there. Even if the Russkies got it, they would've wound up with no more than a lot of very expensive scrap metal."

PUERTO RICAN SMUGGLING: A confidential House study names Puerto Rico as the "hot spot" in the booming South American drug trade. An estimated 80 per cent of the heroin, hashish and cocaine smuggled into the rugged coves of Puerto Rico is now reaching the Continental United States.

Yet the Drug Enforcement Agency has only eight full-time agents assigned to cover Puerto Rico. An additional 300 Puerto Rican narcotics officers have such poor liaison with federal authorities that a top Puerto Rican official complained: "We get the same requests from different (federal) agencies which appear to be unaware of each other's activities."

These are the findings of House Coast Guard Chairman John Murphy, D.-N.Y., who has submitted a confidential report to the parent Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee.

Much of the deadly narcotics are smuggled out of Colombia to a nearly deserted island off the Puerto Rican coast known as "Isla Caja de Muertas" but called "Coffin Island" by narcotics agents. Swift motor boats haul the drugs to secret landing spots on the Puerto Rican coastline. Since Puerto Rico is U.S. territory, they can be smuggled to the mainland without customs examination.

So short-handed are drug enforcement officers that they had to stand by helplessly while a boat, loaded with narcotics, recently slipped ashore and unloaded its deadly cargo.

The confidential Murphy report presents a vivid picture of the terror and bloodshed that the narcotics trade has brought to the once peaceful island of Puerto Rico.

"The drug traffic is so intense in Puerto Rico," states the Murphy report, "that during the first week in January 1975, of the dozen homicides listed in San Juan . . . half were linked to warring factions of organized gangs dealing in the multimillion-dollar drug business."

Murphy reported there were 17 narcotics enforcement officers killed in Puerto Rico in 1974.

Stolen passports is big business

Some 25,000 American passports were reported — I say "reported" — lost or stolen this year! What's that to you?

If a big-time thief could steal any one thing in your house he would pass up the silverware, jewelry and even your cash if he had a chance. Instead, he would steal your passport.

For illegal traffic across international borders a passport can be priceless. So precious are these 3 million documents which our State Department issues every year that some are deliberately sold to underworld connections for thousands of dollars each.

Recently, an assassin tried to murder South Korea's President Park but killed Park's wife instead. That professional killer from Japan got into Korea with an altered passport.

This will help you understand why Frances Knight, director of our nation's passport office, does not sleep well these nights — with 25,000 passports this year "unaccounted for."

It's not just passports being misused by criminals. Credit cards, airline tickets, birth certificates, other documents which can be sold, stolen or counterfeited are costing honest Americans from $1.5 billion to $3 billion annually.

But it is the passport in the hands of a drug smuggler, a kidnaper, an assassin, a revolutionary which affords the most hideous potential for misuse.

Using fraudulent Social Security documents, one person has been known to collect as many as seven benefit checks under different names.

With a false-face passport any outsider, however unwanted, can enter the United States. And the present potential is for unwanted thousands to enter.

In the state of California there is a regular bus run across the border returning illegal aliens.

There is a thriving business in the marriage racket whereby an "arranger" will arrange for an alien to marry a citizen for a substantial down payment. The alien is then brought to the United States as a dependent who in due course applies for citizenship.

But both parties to this arrangement are forever subject to blackmail by the "arranger." Similarly, fradulent documents are useful in adopting babies and, similarly, the adopters remain vulnerable to blackmail.

Drug traffickers abroad seek American passports at any price. There is no way to compute the percentage of robberies and burglaries in the United States in which the primary objective is that one precious document.

In the United States Senate right now is a bill (S. 3001) which establishes more realistic penalties for document fraud. If this is the best we can do it's the least we can do.

Just in jest

Judging by the ever increasing number of "DON'T KNOW" answers being recorded by the political opinion pollsters these days, one might easily come to the conclusion that this country is populated by an inordinate number of ignoramuses. But the truth is most of those DON'T KNOWERS aren't as dumb as they would have the pollsters believe. Actually, they are operating on the theory that what you don't know can't hurt you. The way they figure it, smart citizens these days aren't going out on a limb by voicing opinions. They've come to the conclusion that even though freedom of speech may be one of their constitutional rights, it can also sometimes get them on a CIA or FBI UNFRIENDLY TO ELECTED POLITICIANS list.

The special gift of Westbrook Pegler

Finis Farr, a biographer for all seasons — he's done the lives and times of such disparate personalities as Frank Lloyd Wright, Jack Johnson, FDR — is now out with "Fair Enough," the life of the late columnist Westbrook Pegler.

To most Americans under 30, the name Pegler registers not at all. Those between 30 and 40 know only the Pegler of declining years and spent talent, a raging package of vituperation, a bitter parody of his younger self.

But for Americans 40 and over — especially those who in their youth fancied the career of journalist — mention of Westbrook Pegler can conjure up memories of a Pulitzer Prize-winning bareknuckled investigative newsman.

"Fair Enough" was the title of Pegler's columns for the Scripps-Howard syndicate (before he went over to Hearst's King Features). In his best days, during the 1930s and '40s, his style combined cold brass and sharp wit, as he skewered kings, Presidents, dictators, union chiefs and petty hoods with, as John L. Lewis (one of his targets) might have phrased it, equal vigor and fine impartiality.

In those years, writes Farr, Americans knew Pegler "as people in the TV age know the big-head-closeup news talkers — come in tight on Cronkite, and hold, that's it — and for better or worse, Westbrook had a talent and verbal inventiveness of a sort the new jockeys do not display."

One of the memorable Peglerisms I recall from the years when he was at the peak of his career came out of his visit to Louisiana's capital, when Huey Long was running a rubber-stamp state government. Pegler was incensed watching the lawmakers roll over for the Kingfish.

"They do not permit a house of prostitution to operate within a prescribed distance from the state university," he wrote, "but exempt the state legislature from the meaning of the act."

No, I don't believe Cronkite, John Chancellor or even whimsical Harry Reasoner quite measures up to that standard of querulous commentary.

Pegler had a special gift — the gift of the caricaturist, as Farr points out — for combining insight, bite and humor in his coverage of the national scene. But it was a gift which later warped, the concision and pungency of his early style giving way to splenetic rages on the subject of Eleanor Roosevelt and other obsessions.

He had come to his role of national commentator from the sports beat. Because of this, Peg had a popular, man-in-the-street — as distinguished from pontifical — approach to his work. Above all, he was unpredictable, rebel in some things, establishmentarian in others.

Thus, though middle-age liberals are repelled by his memory and conservatives remember him fondly, Pegler's early track record belies these stock images. He was pro-FDR (and for that matter pro-Eleanor) at one time; despised J. Edgar Hoover ("a nightclub fly-cop"), as well as all military brass (if "the boys" of the First Division died "forgiving Pershing," he wrote, "they let me down"); and the thought of Union League Clubs, those bastions of old gard Republicanism, sent him into paroxysms of populist ridicule.

Pegler won his Pulitzer for exposing gangster control of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Motion Picture Operators in the late '30s. It was an investigative reporting job in the old American muckraking tradition, and as one of his gangster targets left the courthouse following conviction, he paid tribute to his scourge with the line, "I been peglerized!"

Pegler was an intense person, his passion reflected in his writing. But the younger Peg had the redeeming grace of not always taking himself too seriously.

Once, writing of the way he spent his days, he advised readers that of "all the fantastic fog-shapes that have risen off the swamps of confusion since the First World War, the most futile and, at the same time, the most pretentious is the deep-thinking, hair-triggered columnist and commentator who knows all the answers just off hand and can settle great affairs with absolute finality three days or even six days a week."

Late in life, however, the intensity overwhelmed the grace. His was a case of career suicide. But he was first and last a newspaperman with a newspaperman's instincts.

So it was that three years before he died, Pegler wrote his friend Murray Kempton, following the shutdown of three New York newspapers, implering, "If you have a spare half-hour, please write what happened to our world. Peg."

DR. FRANK MILLER

Chicken an expert in energy conservation

DEAR DR. MILLER: My pet chicken, Lennie, does some funny things. She sleeps on our back porch and up to now it's been pretty cold out there. She gets fluffy feathers a lot, and I guess that's to keep her warm. But why does she hunch up? Don't say she's sick because she's not. If she doesn't hunch up, then she sits down and she's not weak. The other funny thing she does is put her head under her wing to sleep, even if it's dark and quiet out there. Is she just a dumb bird? —K.B.

DEAR K.B.: For a birdbrain, Lennie's behaving admirably, particularly when it comes to keeping warm. A hunched-up bird reduces its surface area, thereby reducing heat loss. A sitting bird reduces heat loss from the unfeathered parts of the legs and other areas, and may save up to 50 per cent of its body heat that way. Finally, off the top of her head, Lennie may lose more heat. Tucking it under her wings can reduce heat loss another 12 per cent.

Obviously as far as energy conservation is concerned, your chicken's an expert.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Some time back, years ago I guess, you said they were working on a chemical contraceptive for cats. I haven't heard or read anything about it yet. Where is it? — S. N.

DEAR S.N.: They're still working on it . . . There are several different chemical compounds which will produce temporary sterility in the cat (and in the dog). Unfortunately, they usually produce undesirable side effects, too. Complications in past products have ranged from unwanted permanent sterility in breeding animals to potentially dangerous changes in the uterus. Scientists are this time using more critical long-term testing procedures in an effort to ensure the safety of new prophylactic products. For millions of pets, the need for a low-cost alternative to surgery is great. The need will be met.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Everybody in our family, including the dogs, have colds. Is this a good time of year to have them vaccinated? —C.L.

DEAR C.L.: There's no effective cold vaccine for either species, but canine vaccinations should be kept current regardless of the season. For any canine whose vaccinations are not up to date, the time to revaccinate is now. For any puppy who has not yet had his vaccinations, now is the time to begin them. Procrastination of puppy protection is a frequent — and frequently fatal — mistake.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Whitey, our cat, is the laughingstock of the neighborhood. It's bad enough that he loses most of the fights he's always getting into, but what's worse, when he gets home my husband paints him from head to toe with mercurochrome. He really looks silly. I think he feels that way, too, because he licks the stuff off if it's in a place where he can reach it. I'm just wondering if that mercurochrome does that much good, because he gets a lot of infections anyway. If it doesn't, I'm sure Whitey would be happy if he didn't get painted up like that. —C.G.

DEAR C.G.: When Whitey does show any sign of infection, I hope his doctor takes over, because these infections when untreated may terminate fatally. As far as mercurochrome is concerned, forget it. Even if Whitey liked the color, the product is so ineffectual in preventing those wounds from becoming infected it isn't worth using. What's worse, the mercury contained in mercurochrome can poison him.

ANN LANDERS

Letter from grateful recipient points out need for eye donors

Dear Ann Landers: Once I was completely blind. Can you imagine what it is like suddenly to be denied the joy of seeing all the beautiful things in the world and the faces of those you love?

Today my sight has been completely restored, thanks to a cornea transplant. Words cannot express my gratitude to the person who made it possible. Someone whose identity I will never know pledged his eyes, after death, to a stranger.

I want to express my gratitude to my benefactor by urging others to pledge their eyes so that when they leave this world they might make it possible for a blind person to see again. Won't you please help me, Ann? Ask your readers to contact the International Eye Foundation, Sibley Memorial Hospital, Washington, D.C., for information and guidance to the eye bank nearest them. — Grateful In Beverly, Mass.

Dear Grateful: Here's your letter, and I thank you for it. And now a word from Ann Landers:

The need for eye donations is critical. Many candidates for restored sight must wait six or eight months in total darkness because of the shortage of donors.

There are no religious objections on the part of Catholic, Protestant or Jewish faiths. Eye removals do not in any way disfigure the faces of the deceased.

People of any age may donate their eyes. Relatives may authorize eye donations at the time of death. Individuals who have poor vision or diseased eyes may donate their eyes for research, since such tissue is obviously not suitable for transplant.

Please write to Sibley Memorial Hospital today. It may be the most noble act you have ever performed in your entire life. And it costs you nothing. I signed my pledge card three years ago.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm one of those people who never does today what he can put off till tomorrow. Please forgive me for being months late with this letter.

My wife read your column a while back and handed it to me. She said, "What will Ann Landers say next? Is NOTHING sacred?" She was referring to your letter from the young man who couldn't urinate in a public place and was worried because he had just enlisted in the Navy. The slang term for the problem is "a bashful kidney." Your answer was both enlightening and encouraging.

I have been "one of those" all my life and I'm in my mid-forties. My wife has no idea I have the problem. When I read it in your column, I thought, "How wonderful that Ann has the courage to print such a letter!"

I applaud you for speaking out about things that bother people, even though the topic might be considered crude or indelicate. A lot of folks need to have their questions answered by a stranger, and you do a great service. — Your Friend In Canada

Dear Friend: Thanks for writing. I agree that some letters I print are not appropriate for drawing-room conversation, but my aim is to educate people and provide answers for those who have no place else to go.

That particular letter educated ME. After it appeared I was virtually flooded (if you'll excuse the choice of words) with thank-you's from men with the problem. I had no idea there were so many bashful kidneys on the North American continent.

Make no apology for anthropology

With unemployment rising faster than President Ford's temperature, few of us have given thought to another area where hiring has been frozen, layoffs common and jobs generally non-existent. I need hardly say that I speak of the field of anthropology — or need I?

You think you got it tough? By 1990, the unemployment rate among non-practising anthropologists will be 75 per cent. THAT'S unemployment!

What, you may ask, the hell is anthropology? Since I have my dictionary at hand, or elbow, leave me enlighten you: anthropology is the study of physical and mental characteristics, distribution, customs and social relationships of the races of mankind, especially the institutions, culture, myths and so on, of primitive peoples. An anthropologist is one who does all this stuff — and you can readily see why most of them are out of jobs.

At a recent meeting of the American Anthropological Association in Mexico City (where else?) AA members were warned to forget the Samoans and the tribes of the Trobriand Islands and ply their trade among the primitive tribes here in America. The primitive tribes outside of the U.S. all have oil and nuclear weapons.

There are many areas in America where anthropologists can be invaluable — environmental impact studies, population anthropology, natural resources research, maritime ethnology, town planning, employee relations an' like that.

Nor is there any shortage of primitive tribes to study right here in our own backyard. Not as glamorous as global trotting, and it's probably goodbye to those juicy foundation grants, but trained anthropologists must get to studying such subcultures as Lithuanian-Americans, company towns, rock groupies, female athletes (and sportscasters), and Appalachian snake cultists. One hardly knows where to start!

What are the mental and, er, physical characteristics of the Great American Secretary? Research here could lead to rewarding anthropological data — or possibly a sock in the eye. What of the culture and myths of the National Football League? Is Joe Namath really God, or is that just hearsay? What of the subculture of college students? What are their customs and social relationships? (underline one.) Informed research into the tribal rites and wrongs of the primitive people in show business would prove very fruitful — sorry, enlightening.

Maybe some unemployed anthropologist will do some scholarly research into the primitive tribe of newspaper columnists.

To paraphrase my old friend Alexander Pope slightly, "The proper study of American anthropologists is Americans."

LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Harm in taking vitamin B-6 daily?

DEAR DR. LAMB — A friend of mine has been taking B-6 and Kelp tablets for about six months and has lost 20 pounds.

She maintains a well-balanced diet, but eats less than formerly and also exercises.

Is there any harm in taking B-6 every day for this length of time? She looks wonderful and says she feels fine.

DEAR READER — No, the B-6 and the Kelp won't hurt her, but they have nothing to do with her weight loss. The weight loss is a direct result of decreasing her calorie intake and increasing her daily use of calories by exercise.

Most people can lose weight if they will go on a proper diet and will exercise. It takes time, though. Your friend has spent six months doing it, not a few weeks.

The best way to lose unhealthy fat is to do it gradually to avoid vitamin deficiencies and loss of important body protein, including that in the muscles. Crash exercise or diet programs of any type are dangerous.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband was recently told his blood cholesterol was high and he should watch his diet. He has been told by a friend that he should drink wine with his meals to prevent hardening of the arteries or the fatty-cholesterol deposits.

He also states there are certain foods that will help dissolve the present build-up of fat and reverse the damage in his arteries. Will you please advise me if this information is true?

DEAR READER — Wine or any other alcoholic beverage will not prevent or reverse the fatty-cholesterol deposit process in the arteries unless a person uses so much that it begins to affect the liver. Trading liver disease for heart disease isn't much progress.

The truth is that wine at dinner may lead your husband to eat more than he should and actually contribute to his problem. Wine also adds to his calorie intake.

Yes you can eat in such a way that it will help to reverse the changes in the arteries caused by fatty-cholesterol deposits. This isn't accomplished, though, by eating some particular food, but by avoiding eating a lot of rich, fatty foods. Your husband needs a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet and sufficient calorie restriction to eliminate any excess fat he may have or to prevent future development of fat.

A good study was done on Rhesus monkeys that showed that if they ate our usual rich diet they quickly developed disease of the arteries. When the rest of the group was put back on a low-calorie, low-fat monkey diet, the arterial changes reversed to normal.

You can't reverse the scarring and structural damage that has already occurred, but a lot can be done to reverse some of the changes. And, by using such a diet you can help prevent additional deposits in the arteries.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on cholesterol, send 50 cents and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope to the same address and ask for the "Cholesterol" booklet.

Q. "What two words in the English language spell the same object both forwards and backwards?"

A. How about "race car?" Any others?

Q. "WHAT'S Robert Redford's business address?"

A. Might try care of Creative Management Associates, 8899 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90048. Such was it at latest report.

Q. "QUICK, Louie, what do Greer Garson and Gene Autry have in common?"

A. A considerable amount of money plus the fact they both were born Sept. 29, 1908. But that's all I can think of.

SIR, HOW MANY conversations do you join into every day? Said Roy S. Dunton: "It has been estimated that from the first 'Good morning' to the last 'Good night' the average man engages in approximately 30 conversations a day.

COBRA

A burglar struck in Los Angeles. An insider who kept a rattlesnake and a cobra in his room turned informer. The defendant got mad, so told police about the poisonous snakes. They went out and confiscated the carnival character's reptiles at a skid road bar. And that, my friend, is how the Los Angeles Zoo got its first cobra.

ARGUMENT CONTINUES as to whether rabbits are carnivorous. Sometime back a lad contended he knew them to be so, because one bit his little brother. But experts told me to advise him said rabbit could not be called carnivorous unless it—forgive this—ate the entire child. Now a feminine Floridian says, "Bunk! My rabbits have devoured one another with great abandon! They are not only carnivorous, but cannibalistic!" I don't want to talk about it, anymore.

For Wednesday, March 26

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your judgment is questionable regarding the course of action you are pursuing. Continue to kid yourself and steps will have to be retraced.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It is far easier for you to make promises today than it is for you to keep them. Don't volunteer — unless you're sincere.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is not the day to gamble on others to bail you out of situations where you have gotten in too deep. Bring your own lifejacket.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't push your budget to the breaking point because you want your family to keep up with the Joneses. It won't stand the strain.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Refrain from telling tall tales today. The stories you embellish later come home to roost, much to your embarrassment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You have a tendency at this time to count material blessings before they become reality. Wait till they're in the bank.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're too easily swayed today by others' opinions. Be sure the hotshot who's bending your ear has worthy wares.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't expect more from others than you would give if the roles were reversed. Put yourself in the shoes of the donor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Friends want to treat you kindly today. They'll say what they think you want to hear. Don't put too much stock in their words.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't boast today of how you overcame an adversary. One who is listening closely is a better friend of your opponent than he is of yours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) The only one impressed by your big ideas today will be yourself. Keep this in mind if you're addressing an audience.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) That business deal you're pushing could boomerang. The profit you anticipate is likely to come from YOUR pocket!

Your Birthday March 26

This may be a year when more opportunities than you think you can handle will be dumped in your lap. Common sense and follow-through are "musts" for a reward.

What people say

"I became a thing, a publicity vehicle, something created by other people. Everyone claimed to have discovered me and I was used."

—Former sex symbol Ewa Aulin lamenting her short-lived career blaming opportunists for her reluctance to return to Hollywood.

"Man lives as the animal kingdom does, by killing, and when he talks about the sanctity of life, he doesn't really mean life at all, but only the exempt list."

Twain at Bridges April 12

"If Mark Twain were alive today, there might have been a lot he liked. But there's one thing he sure-as-shootin' would have loathed — and that's computerized conformity!"

The speaker is a chap who knows Mark Twain well: Hal Holbrook, star of "Mark Twain Tonight!" which comes to The Claremont Colleges' Bridges Auditorium April 12 at 8:15 p.m. Holbrook has not only portrayed the caustic old American humorist thousands of times on stages throughout the world, but has spent nearly two decades studying Twain's life, works, ideas, and thought processes. When Holbrook pretends to be Twain at 70 in the one-man show, his performance goes a lot deeper than the latex skin he's wearing.

"Twain," Holbrook says, "had an individualism and a passion the like of which we don't often see today. These qualities seem almost lost in most people. Twain argued for things like civil rights. He attacked politicians and the medical profession. He never believed in something because it was fashionable or expedient to do so, and he used his sharp wit as a weapon to carve up plenty of sacred cows."

In spite of the fact that Twain was a very cynical old party indeed, Holbrook says that the author believed deeply in principles. But he covered his belief with "a kind of crustiness."

"Our society doesn't produce much of that kind of fearless swimmer-against-the-tide any more," the actor adds. "We turn out effloaters, conformists. Mark Twain would have railed against that."

In fact, he did: it was Twain, Holbrook recalls, who coined the classic "It is not best that we should all think alike; it is difference of opinion that makes horse races."

Airline looks for dope smugglers among staff

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — East African Airways, the airline jointly operated by Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania, has launched a crackdown on employes involved in smuggling of narcotics.

Several airline employes have been charged in recent months with smuggling marijuana from Kenya to Britain.

The airline's director-general, Col. G. W. Toko, of Uganda, has asked associations representing flight crew and cabin staff for their assistance in reporting any of their members suspected of being involved in drug trafficking.

Macy's may not tell Gimbel's but CBS is filming shows at NBC's facilities

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There was Perry Como in the basement of the NBC building, dressed in sneakers, chinos and a Peter Falk trenchcoat. He stood at the rehearsal piano blending notes of a Bert Bacharach tune with the lovely daughters of Pat Boone.

They were preparing songs for Como's Thursday special on CBS, which will also star the Boone parents: Bob Newhart, and Olivia Newton-John. But wait a minute. What is a CBS special doing in the bowels of NBC?

Therein lies a small lesson in network economics. Explains the show's producer, Bob Finkel: "We can save 20 per cent of our below-the-line (nontalent) costs by not doing the show at CBS.

"Production costs have risen tremendously at the networks, and because of recent rulings, shows that are contracted outside the networks, such as ours, cannot be forced to use network facilities.

"It's much cheaper for us to rent space. So we'll rehearse here at NBC and shoot at KTTV (Channel 11), where Norman Lear has moved some of his shows ('Maude,' 'Hot l Baltimore') for the same reason.

"And I'll tell you another advantage: the crews at KTTV give you the same enthusiasm you used to get at the networks, but don't anymore."

Perry Como sauntered over from the piano and added his own observations:

"It makes sense. These productions have been getting out of hand.

"Why, last fall we did a special at CBS that required five days of taping. That kind of expense can just about wipe out any profit, and ole dad has to keep an eye on these things.

"The next show we did was out of Nashville, and we taped the show in three hours; and although it didn't have all the production values, I think it was just as entertaining.

"You know, we did some pretty fair shows when I was doing a weekly show. Not a lot of fancy camera angles, but we gave the folks some entertainment. Now those shows we did in one hour, start to finish. Sometimes an hour and a half, but no more. Maybe we should go back to that kind of thinking."

Como's languorous manner conceals a show-wise mind that has sustained one of the longest and most successful careers in music.

During rehearsals he seems to be complying with the suggestions of his director and producers, but then he gives his own idea of how a scene should be staged. That's usually the way it is done.

Likewise his career. Despite urgings, the 62-year-old performer has declined to return to Las Vegas for the past two years. The reason: the leg injury that has slowed him down.

"I never had it operated on, and it gave me trouble for a long time," said Como. "It's much better now, but I can tell you when it's going to rain. And instead of walkin' on the golf course, as I used to, I take the cart.

"They wanted me to play Vegas with a cane. I said no thanks. When people pay money to be entertained, they don't want to know about the performer's problems. They just want a show."

"At first I didn't think I wanted to do it. But then I got to thinking about how amazingly well my records sell there and how one of my singles shot to the top after I did a command performance. So I decided to go — on one condition.

"I told the promoter, 'I don't want you charging the folks 10 pounds for seats. Put the tickets in the price range that everyone can afford.'

"I'd rather make less money and send them away happy. I think a lot of American stars make a mistake of going over there and charging outrageous prices to be seen."

Entertainment

REPORTS OF David McCallum's death are highly exaggerated, the movie-TV star said this week. Absence from the small screen for almost two years gave rise to the rumors. McCallum just completed a TV movie, "The New Adventures of the Invisible Man" to be aired during the month of May.

TV ratings

Thumbs down for CBS's 'We'll get by'

NEW YORK (AP) — "We'll Get By" didn't get by, at least not in the ratings for its premiere last week as the latest Friday night series CBS has put on opposite NBC's powerhouse "Chico and the Man."

"We'll Get By," created by Alan "M-A-S-H" Alda, was overwhelmed by NBC's show, according to A.C. Nielsen Co. audience estimates for last week.

If it's any consolation to Alda, the Korean war comedy series in which he stars was the week's highest-rated national evening program.

Couple wed at service in chapel

The Wee Kirk o' the Heather Chapel in Las Vegas was the setting for the marriage of Cheryl Anne Hone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Buford of Montclair, to Wade Perry Ross, son of the James A. Edelbrocks of Pomona.

The ceremony was read Sunday at 5 p.m. with Miss Theresa H. Kinto of Pomona and Larry Dale Ross, brother of the groom, of Santa Ana as attendants.

A semi-fitted gown, made by the bride's mother, was chosen by the bride for the ceremony. The dotted swiss bodice and ruffled sleeves accented the a-line crepe skirt. Her veil of illusion was elbow length and was outlined in lace. She carried an arrangement of spring flowers.

A reception for the couple will be held at the home of the bride's parents on Easter Sunday.

The newlyweds will honeymoon in Las Vegas and will make their home in Pomona.

Ask Dr. Brothers

'Bottled-up' wife

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: I'm a successful businessman but, apparently, a much less successful husband. My first marriage ended in divorce and my wife accused me of making her an alcoholic. God knows who made her a boozer, but it was her bottles that ended our marriage. Three years ago, I married another woman and we've had what I consider a happy marriage except for the occasional argument usually revolving around the male-female role in society. She always was gung-ho on women's liberation but I decided I could live with that.

What really troubles me is that it's almost as if I'm living a flashback to my earlier marriage. When I come home I know she's been hitting the bottle. Naturally, she denies this but after two cocktails with me, she's loaded. Is it possible that I'm the villain and there is something in me that automaticallly turns a lady into a lush? — T. R.

Dear T. R.: No one can turn a nonalcoholic into an alcoholic, although it's not unusual for the alcoholic husband or wife to blame his or her spouse. A mate can create a climate of tension and resentment in which liquor is the way the individual selects to cope with the problem, but if that person is going to be an alcoholic, he or she will look for reasons to drink. If there is none the alcoholic mate may create scenes in order to find excuses for the "comfort," or "courage" drink.

Psychiatrist Morris Chafetz, who directs the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, believes loneliness and pain are the companions of all heavy drinkers and that they drink because, whatever its long range devastation, liquor in the short run washes away the pain.

If your wife is a heavy drinker and not an alcoholic, boredom may be part of her problem. Rather than merely tolerating her interest in women's liberation, encourage her to become active. Try to raise your own consciousness in this area and you may find that your own attitude will change. You may feel less patronizing and more concerned about the inequities that do exist.

Resentment that finds no outlet for expression may literally get "bottled up." Resentment is the constant enemy of both the heavy drinker and the alcoholic. When anger is swallowed, there's apt to be alcohol swallowed along with the repressed anger. If your wife is as you say, gung-ho about women's liberation, she probably has a great deal of resentement that should be expressed.

The high achiever or the successful man in business or politics often has problems on the home front. One of the most common is alcoholism, either with the man himself or, more commonly, with his wife. Usually the successful man is away from home a good deal and the wife has little opportunity to create or fulfill her own potential. Usually, she is well educated and may have given up a career for marriage. Too often, she tries to submerge herself in his life and to be his shadow living in reflected glory. This may seem a satisfactory arrangement to the man, but it can be destructive to the woman.

Career men are involved in many interests outside the family, whereas the woman in the home may have no other resources than in her disrupted marital life. She's likely to start drinking if her prestige and identity depend on her husband, especially if she feels him slipping away. Inherently, the situation is unhealthy, for each mate should have his own identity and his own chance to fulfil himself. When there is too much blending and too much sacrifice, there's bound to be trouble.

Try to talk with your wife about her drinking and encourage her to discuss her problems with a doctor. It would be helpful if she could talk with someone from Alcoholics Anonymous and if you would both attend several open meetings to help her determine if she is heading into alcoholism.

Bitter Ali calls Wepner 'dirty fighter'

Champ finally wins in 15th round

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I tried to kill him, I tried to annihilate him, he was a dirty fighter...eye for an eye, tooth for a tooth."

Muslim Muhammad Ali reached into the Bible to find words to describe the bitterness that swept him after a wild last-round victory over obscure Chuck Wepner that preserved his world heavyweight boxing championship Monday night.

It wasn't one of Ali's most glorious hours.

For 14 rounds and most of the 15th, the big, awkward, bar room brawler from New Jersey stood toe to toe with the world title-holder, taking Ali's best shots without buckling.

The great Ali was booed in the sixth round when he stood in the corner, covering his face from Wepner's marshmallow left hooks and looping rights.

Ali dropped to the lower strands of the ropes in the ninth for a disputed knockdown. He was only a shadow of the great fighter that battled his way to the heavyweight crown only to have it taken from him unjustly and then regain it.

He wasn't the Ali who fought two great battles with Joe Frazier and smashed George Foreman into submission last October in Zaire, Africa—and he admitted it.

But, like a choreographer, he rallied for a stirring finish that left his legion of followers again chanting, "Ali, Ali, Ali."

With seconds left in the 15th round, the champion unleashed a devastating attack. He nailed Wepner with a left and then shot a straight right to the jaw that had the impact of a sledgehammer.

Wepner was bleeding from a cut over the left eye and his face was reddened and bruised from scores of unblocked punches. He collapsed against the ropes and dropped to the canvas like a stricken moose.

Pluckily, the challenger groped to his feet at the count of nine but referee Tony Perez interceded. Ali was the winner by a technical knockout in 2:41 of the 15th round. It will go into the record books as a knockout because TKO's are not counted in heavyweight title fights.

As Wepner was literally dragged to his corner by manager Al Braverman—while the crowd of 14,847 in the Cleveland Coliseum yelled wildly—Ali on the other side of the ring, slumped to the floor.

He lay there momentarily— as if unconscious from exhaustion. There were moments of high tension. It appeared to be a fight ending with both boxers prostrate. But it was a Muhammad gag. Boxing's greatest actor was on stage again.

"Too many fools were climbing into the ring," he said. "I just lay down."

In one breath, Ali praised Wepner as a creditable fighter—"better than you all gave him credit for. George Foreman and Ken Norton were easier."—and in the next breath he lashed out at both the ring tactics of his opponent and the performance of Perez, the referee.

"He was a dirty dog," Ali said of Perez. "He let that man keep banging me on the head. I got two welts on the back of my head. Wepner butted me and he kicked me once. The referee didn't say anything.

LOCAL - NATIONAL

Sports

"Perez is not white, he is not black. He is just trying to be white, a part of the people in New York who took my title away. I never want to see him in the ring again. If he is, I will not fight."

Ali admitted that he did not train hard. He said he paced himself, saving energy for future opponents, such as European champion Joe Bugner, his possible next foe this summer, Joe Frazier and George Foreman.

"I trained just hard enough to get by," he said. "I plan to fight 10 more years. If I tried to move and duck every punch I would have been tireder than him at the end.

"Few human beings could go 15 rounds lilke that."

Frazier was at ringside as was Joe Louis, the old Brown Bomber whom Ali has idolized for years.

"He can't keep ducking me," Frazier said. "The people won't stand for it. We gave Clay his chance when the government was against him. Now he's got to give us a chance."

Louis agreed.

"Ali should fight Frazier next and the winner should fight Foreman," the Brown Bomber said. "They are the only good heavyweights left. I think Frazier would win the next time."

Ali was told of Frazier's challenge at his post-midnight news conference after the fight.

"I'll fight Frazier. I'll fight him before Bugner if he will come up with $10 million," Ali said.

There is no question as to how long ring angels can keep coming up with the millions needed to continue these extravagent shows. Some predicted that this electronic double header — tied in with the Ken Norton-Jerry Quarry bout at New York's Madison Square Garden — might lose 71 million. Promoter Don King of Video Techniques denied it.

Video Techniques, which handled the closed circuit television, said indications were that 500,000 seats were sold and that this plus foreign sales would easily meet the $2.5 million nut.

Valley teams take lumps in tourney

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

Valley teams took their lumps Monday in the opening round of the 40th annual Pomona Elks High School Baseball Tournament.

Out of the 14 valley clubs competing in the Easter week classic, only two were able to stay in contention for the tournament championship.

They entered the third round this morning at Ralph Welch Park in Pomona.

Upland, showing some steady pitching and a little bit of power, slipped into the quarterfinals with a 2-0 shutout of Fontana and a 6-3 triumph over Charter Oak.

Chaffey, coming up with scoring spurts, emerged into today's action with a 9-4 whipping of Claremont and a 5-1 conquest of powerful West Covina.

And that was it as far as valley competition was concerned.

However, when the competition resumed today there were still four valley teams alive in the consolation bracket.

Alta Loma and Claremont were scheduled to engage in combat at 9:30 this morning, while Bonita battled Glendora at the same time. In a little later game this morning, Damien confronted Fontana (11:45).

Semifinal competition gets underway today at 4:45 p.m., with the two consolation games being played at the two Welch Park fields.

Then at 7 p.m., the two championship round semifinals contests will be played at the same two fields.

Tourney delayed

Rain has forced the Pomona Elks Lodge 789 to postpone today's action in its 40th annual Pomona Baseball Tournament.

The schedule will be moved back one day with the semifinals slated Wednesday night and the finals Thursday night at Ralph Welch Park.

Play resumes at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

•The two supposedly top-seeded teams in the tournament were eliminated early.

Chino, runner-up in the Chaffey Tournament earlier this year, recorded a 2-1 victory over Alta Loma in the first round but dropped out of the tourney with a 6-1 loss to Northview in the second round of the championship bracket.

Northview handed the Cowboys a dose of their own medicine, ripping off six runs in three two-run innings. Charles Custer hit a two-run double in the second inning off starter Keith Mundee, and then Val Primante slashed a two-run homer in the fifth frame. Reliever Mike Coppess was the victim of a two-run homer by Tim Carrico in the seventh inning.

Northview pitcher Ken Rogers silenced the usually explosive Chino bats, allowing only three hits while fanning six Cowboys.

Damien, co-leader in the San Antonio League along with Montclair, lost its opening round contest against surprising Compton, 4-0. That automatically put the Spartans in the consolation bracket, where they stayed alive with a 4-0 blanking of Cypress.

Compton bombed Damien starter Gary Allec for three runs in the first inning, on five walks and a single. Compton pitcher William Wyatt proceeded to limit the Spartans to three hits for the rest of the game.

Gary Carr gave Upland its opening round victory by three-hitting Fontana, while also driving in one of the Highlanders' two runs with a double in the third inning. Dave Duncan's single earlier in the inning drove in Steve Standlea to get the Scots going.

Duncan and Standlea provided most of the offense for Upland again later in the afternoon. Duncan went three-for-four (single, double and triple), while Standlea blasted a solo home run in the sixth against Charter Oak.

Pitcher Joe Zamudio gave up only six hits while striking out six — three in the final inning. He also slapped two singles against the Lancers.

Charter Oak scored all three of its runs in the fourth inning on a two-run homer by Robbie Ehlenberg (his second of the day) and Mike Cagney's run-scoring single after Rocky Favia doubled.

Chaffey really went bananas in the fifth inning against Claremont early Monday morning in the opener. After relieving starter Brian Fitzjerel, Claemont's Paul Sokolowski loaded the bases and then confronted Chaffey's John Taylor.

Taylor put the game out of reach with a grand slam home run to highlight the seven-run inning.

In the Tigers' nightcap, it was again the fifth inning when the Jim Semon-coached club won it.

Tony Munoz slashed a bases loaded single to score two runs in an eventual three-run inning. The third Chaffey tally came on the same play as a result of a West Covina error.

That put Chaffey on top, 4-1, and it looked as though it was all over at that point.

Chaffey was scheduled to meet Northview in one quarterfinal matchup today at 11:45 a.m., while Upland was slated in a 2 p.m. clash with Compton.

The other two quarterfinal games included Anaheim against Los Altos (11:45) and Workman against Edgewood (2 p.m.)

Other teams which figured to do well but were bumped from the championship side of the bracket included Cabrillo, Montclair, Bonita and Walnut.

Two unbeaten teams, Cabrillo and Los Altos, met in the first round with Los Altos taking a 2-1 decision into the second round. Cabrillo eventually dropped out of the tourney with a 6-3 loss to Corona Del Mar.

Montclair slipped into the second round in the championship bracket with a 3-2 victory over Corona Del Mar. Tony Esquibel doubled home Ron Candeleria with one out in the bottom of the seventh to win it for the Cavs.

But in the second round against Los Altos, Montclair took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Brent Jetton singled home Kent Gurney and then gave up two runs in the second inning before by losing by that score.

Bonita never made it to the championship bracket. The Bearcats lost a tough 1-0 decision to Edgewood in the first round. Edgewood's only run came in the fourth inning on a single by Mark Bridgewater and a triple by winning pitcher Jeff Toothman.

The Bearcats loaded the bases in the sixth inning with only one out, but couldn't get anybody home. Their bats came alive, however, and they crushed Garey, 14-0, in the second round of the consolation bracket.

Walnut also rallied to beat Workman in the second round. After the Mustangs topped Glendora in the opener, 2-1, they trailed, 4-2, going into the bottom of the sixth inning against the Lobos.

The Mustangs loaded the bases, scored one run, but left three men stranded when the game was called after the six frames due to time.

The highlight of the consolation competition came when Claremont's Mil Pompa hurled a no-hitter as the Wolfpack topped Royal, 4-1. Royal's only run came on two walks, a wild pitch and a sacrifice fly.

CUT DOWN AT THE PLATE

Pomona High catcher Mike Wooten puts the tag on Workman's Dave Cuthbertson at home plate during Monday's opening round of the Pomona Elks High School Baseball Tournament. Pomona went nine innings before falling to Workman, 6-5. The Devils were later eliminated from tournament competition after losing to Glendora in the consolation bracket, 1-0.

OMS dispute

When does lease end?

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

The next step in the troubled history of Ontario Motor Speedway appears to be a court battle to determine when the existing operating lease expires.

The current operator, OMSOC (for Ontario Motor Speedway Operating Company), the organization headed by Parnelli Jones, Jim Cook, Vel Miletich, Tony Hulman and associates, claims the lease will terminate next Monday.

OMS Corporation, the non profit board governing the facility, disagrees and contends the lease will not terminate until a year from Monday or March 31, 1976.

That such a dispute exists was publicly admitted for the first time Monday at a special meeting of the non-profit board in City Council Chambers at Ontario City Hall.

In the brief public portion of the meeting, the non profit board's attorney, Samuel Crowe, informed members, that a number of problems exist with respect to what the board is to do if it becomes the operator of the facility April 1 (which it would do if Jones and associates get out)."

It was revealed that the board has received $120,000 (since the California 500 March 9) in payment toward OMSOC's current obligation which will total, approximately $202,000 as of next Monday.

The public portion of the meeting then adjourned and Crowe offered to answer as many questions as he could before the meeting re-convened in legal (closed) session.

"We have received a letter (this month) from them (OMSOC)," Crowe stated, "indicating that in the event their previous cancellation of the lease is invalid they are now giving us a cancellation effective this March 31 which would terminate the following year (1976). They have attempted to terminate previously effective March 31, 1975. But there is a reasonable bonafide dispute as to when the notice was given and I'm sure it will be decided by the courts."

The second notice was a formality to insure OMSOC that the lease will not extend more than another year in case the orignal cancellation notice is not upheld.

Although admitting that representatives of both sides have been meeting regularly including Monday before the special board meeting, Crowe said the board still does not know if the OMSOC group actually will turn operation of the track back to the board next Monday.

"They haven't told us that they intend to get out of there next Monday," Crowe said. "They have told us they feel the lease terminates that date. But we're not sure what they are going to do.

"The non profit board is required to operate the facility if it is abandoned by the present operator," he continued. "So the primary purpose of our meeting today is to adopt some contingency plans in the event the keys are turned over to us March 31."

Obviously the issue over the validity of the cancellation notice will not be settled by that date.

"I'm, sure it will be decided by the courts in the form of an Action for a Declaratory Release," Crowe said, "when both sides go in to (Superior) court and present their side and the court decides whether there was a cancellation or was not a cancellation."

Crowe pointed out that all parties involved have made a "good faith" effort to resolve the matter to the benefit of the track.

"Everybody so far has made every effort they could within their particular abilities to handle the problem so that the track, the bondholders and the racing fans ultimately would benefit," Crowe said.

No one seems to be mad at anyone. Crowe admitted the bondholders had not, to his knowledge, initiated any action. But neither is anything settled.

Besides the approximately $82,000 still owed by OMSOC, another real property tax payment of $119,000 becomes due April 10.

Under terms of the lease, OMSOC cannot sublet the operation.

The next move apparently will be up to OMSOC in deciding whether or not to turn the keys over to the non profit board and abandon the facility.

La Verne teenager wins skiing crown

Tom Willoughby, 17, of La Verne took the first place trophy in the Giant Slalom at Mammoth Sunday in competition with 77 other skiers in the Junior Division of the Far West Ski Association in Class C.

On March 9, Willoughby, in his first race took second place in the beginners division Class D, against a field of more than 100 and was 99th position. The March 9 competition was at Squaw Valley.

Willoughby will have 5 more races next month at Tahoe and Heavenly Valley. He has been practicing at Mt. Baldy for the current races.

Willoughby learned to ski in Switzerland at age 6 and then was off skis for several years when his parents returned to this country and lived in Virginia. He has been a resident of La Verne for the past several years and has been skiing at Mt. Baldy and Mammoth during that time.

Quarry battered, says he is retiring

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Quarry, his face battered and covered with blood after a devastating loss to Ken Norton, quietly announced his retirement from boxing Monday and exited Madison Square Garden asking that he be allowed to keep his pride.

Harassed by photographers' flash bulbs after being stopped in the fifth round of their scheduled 12 rounder, Quarry said: "No more damn pictures.

"I want to go with a little pride."

Norton scored repeatedly throughout the fight—a closed circuit television preliminary to the Muhammad Ali-Chuck Wepner bout—with left-right combinations and left jabs.

Norton, 29 like Quarry, immediately thrust himself back into the heavyweight championship picture when he opened a gash above Quarry's right eye in the third round and then closed Quarry's right eye in the fifth.

Norton scored with a left-right combination, landed another hard right, then a left jab and referee John LoBianco stepped in and stopped the fight at 2:29 of the fifth round.

"I couldn't see," said Quarry, whose only real flurry of scoring punches came in the third round. "We gave it a try."

"The time has come to quit," the heavyweight said as he was escorted into a private elevator with his wife and left the Garden area in a taxicab.

Norton, picking up his 33rd victory against three losses, began battering Quarry in the first round with left jabs and several right uppercuts. The second round continued much the same until Quarry took charge briefly in a flurry at ring's center.

After a brief Norton flurry in the third, Quarry again appeared to be the aggressor as he backed Norton into the ropes and flailed away.

"I was in charge," Norton said of the third-round exchange. "I was catching his punches with my gloves, countering occasionally. I didn't get hit with any clean shots.

"After the third, I knew he didn't have anything left," said Norton, apparently rested and unmarked.

Norton caught Quarry against the ropes several times in the fourth round as Quarry's right eye began bleeding profusely again. Norton again forced Quarry to the ropes in the fifth, where he finished off his lighter opponent.

"I don't want to say anything derogatory about his (Quarry's) ability," said Norton, who weighed in at a lean 218½, "but I was catching his punches and he wasn't hurting me."

Quarry, now 50-8-4, weighed 207.

Quarry received $185,000 and Norton got $100,000.

A crowd of 15,397 at the Garden paid $308,773.08.

WCT is expanding with challenge cup

By The Associated Press

The expanded world of professional tennis expanded still further Monday with the announcement of a World Championship Tennis challenge cup series to begin next January.

WCT Executive Director Mike Davies made the announcement in Dallas. The series, which will carry a total of $380,000 in prize money, will have the top 16 finishers on this year's WCT tour pairing off in a series of winner-take-all matches to be played Monday nights from January through May.

"We feel the Challenge Cup series will add further excitement to the tennis calendar," said Davies.

First-round winners will receive $10,000 while the losers will get nothing. The eventual winner will pick up $100,000 in the finals, giving him a whopping $185,000 for the entire series.

Meanwhile, in Atlanta, the WCT Red Group began a $60,000 tournament with Americans Bob Lutz and Cliff Richey among eight first-round victors. Lutz beat New Zealander Jeff Simpson 7-6, 6-4 and Richey dumped Armistead Neeley 6-0, 6-4.

In Orlando, Fla., the Blue Group got underway with only two seeded players in action. Fourth-seeded Jaime Fillol of Chile was upset by South Africa's Andrew Pattison 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 and eighth-seeded Alex Metreveli of Russia outlasted Colombia's Ivan Molina 6-3, 6-7, 6-4.

Dick Williams likes Angels

'Can be contender'

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — It took a loss for Dick Williams to acknowledge that he now feels his California Angels can be contenders in the American League.

Williams did not seem downcast after Monday's 8-7 loss to the Oakland Athletics, despite three errors in the fourth inning which led to four unearned runs off Andy Hassler.

"All I have said is that we would win more than we would lose but, yes, I think we can be a contender," said Williams.

He said the play of his youngsters is the most pleasing aspect of the first 13 games of the spring and he added, "I know this is only spring but the way we've been playing, we can be a contender. The kids don't know how to say 'quit'."

One such youngster is Canadian outfielder John Balaz, who got a ninth inning single after Oakland had taken the lead on Angel Mangual's two-run homer.

"We keep playing him and some others, figuring they would play themselves out of the lineup but they just keep hanging in there," Williams said.

He admitted, too, that there was a definite possibility of playing rookies up the middle— Jerry Remy at second, Orlando Ramirez at short and young Morris Nettles in center. Nettles has outstanding speed and stole his fifth and sixth bases Monday.

The Angels trailed, 5-4, in the sixth when John Doherty started a rally with a single and scored on Balaz' double. Tom Egan doubled to scored Balaz. Designated runner Nettles went to third on a ground ball. Bobby Valentine then walked.

With two out, Valentine attempted to steal but stopped short of a tag midway between first and second as Nettles broke for home. Helped by the distraction Nettles scored under Joe Fosse's tag.

Phil Garner singled to open the top of the ninth and Horacio Pina served the home run ball to Mangual that gave the A's their third victory in eight spring games.

The Angels lost for the first time in the spring at home and dropped to 10-3 before today's game at Scottsdale, Ariz., with the Chicago Cubs.

Herb Washington, Oakland's designated runner, was used on three separate occasions and stole his 7th, 8th and 9th bases in seven games.

Asked how he felt about a non batter stealing three bases, Williams answered, "Well, he couldn't steal more than three during the regular season, so I guess he got his quota for the day."

When the season opens the designated runner can be used only once in a game and his maximum steal total would be three.

"Image a non-player breaking Lou Brock's record of 118," said Angel coach Whitey Herzog. "That's terrible. If he only stole one base a game he'd have 162."

Fourth starter still unknown for Dodgers

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — When spring training started, Dodger Manager Walter Alston did not know who his fourth starter will be.

Today, about four weeks later, he still doesn't know.

"It's a tossup right now," the Dodger manager said Monday after a wild 13-12 victory over the Boston Red Sox. The candidates are knuckleballer Charlie Hough, veteran Al Downing, young lefty Geoff Zahn and rookie Rick Rhoden.

And then there's Juan Marichal, the Dodgers former No. 1 nemesis

"The reports I'm getting on Marichal are good," Alston said. "Pitching Coach Red Adams has been encouraged, even though Marichal hasn't really cut loose yet. If he's sound, he can help us."

The Dodgers top three starters will be Don Sutton, Andy Messersmith and Doug Rau. The fourth spot opened when Tommy John underwent elbow surgery last year.

Sutton started Monday and was rudely roughed up for six earned runs and 10 hits in six innings.

Fortunately the Dodgers had enough power to compensate. Ron Cey drove in seven runs with a pair of homers and Joe Ferguson homered and had four hits.

Davey Lopes and Manny Mota added three hits each as the Dodgers pounded 20 hits to score their 10th victory in their last 12 games and raise their spring record to 11-5. Boston is 7-11.

Former Southern Cal star Fred Lynn and Rico Petrocelli, Rick Burleson, Kim Andrew and Tim Blackwell homered for Boston as the teams collected 17 extra base hits.

Cey hit a three-run homer in the fourth against Boston starter Bill Lee, then unloaded a bases-loaded shot off Dick Pole in the sixth.

Even Syracuse

Playoffs have everything

By Associated Press

The NCAA's basketball playoffs have everything this year:

—A perennial champion in UCLA.

—A team loaded with tradition in Kentucky.

—A rising power in Louisville.

—And Syracuse.

Syracuse? Yes, Syracuse.

The team that nobody expected with players that nobody wanted is among the final four at this year's glamorous playoffs in San Diego. And nobody is more surprised than Syracuse.

"It's unbelievable," says Sports Information Director Larry Kimball. And few would disagree.

The Orangemen are an unlikely pretender to the crown. They started the season with three of last year's starters gone. None of their players, including powerhouse forward Rudy Hackett, was heavily recruited by anybody.

Coach Roy Danforth didn't have his starting team of Hackett, Chris Sease, Earnie Seibert, Jim Lee and Jim Williams playing as a unit until the ninth game of the season.

When the Orangemen won the ECAC's New York State tournament and took an at-large berth in the NCAA East Regional playoffs, they weren't given a chance to get past the first round.

But something that Danforth likes to call "character" continued to emerge and Syracuse upset La Salle 87-83 in Philadelphia. The Orangemen were given little chance to beat North Carolina in the semifinals of the East Regional at Providence.

But they did, 78-76. Kansas State would stop the Orangemen, most thought. But Syracuse won in overtime, 95-87, and moved toward a summit meeting in San Diego on the wings of a nine-game winning streak.

Overnight, the Orangemen leaped from No. 20 to No. 6 in the national polls, giving credence to that old chestnut, "team basketball."

"Actually, there's no other way to describe our team," says Kimball. "It's got great character. They are a group of hard-working, disciplined players. Each makes a contribution. They're extremely unselfish. They pass the ball very well."

The Orangemen amassed 589 assists to 456 for the opposition this season, a big reason why they carry a 23-7 record into the championship round.

The top reserves on the team are Kevin King and Ross Kindel. Their contributions have helped to launch Syracuse into the NCAA's championship round for the first time in the school's history. The Orangemen were acknowledged as national champions in the 1925-26 season, but that was before the NCAA started its playoff system.

Still high in the clouds after their surprising victories in the East Regional, the Orangemen plan to land hard in San Diego on Saturday.

"We use a 2-3 zone defense and try to control the tempo of a game," said Kimball. "If we play our style, we'll have a good chance."

But actually, the biggest upset of the college basketball season has already happened. The fact that Syracuse is still alive is the proof of it.

Santa Clara bats explode in rally

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Gary Cheso slugged a grand-slam homer as Santa Clara exploded for 9 runs in the bottom of the ninth and went on to whip UC Riverside 12-11 in 10 innings Monday night.

Steve Petrinovich singled home George Hahn with two outs in the bottom of the tenth to give Santa Clara its victory in the second of two night games at opening round of the Riverside National Intercollegiate Baseball Tournament.

Earlier Doug Simpson and Marty Maxwell blasted a bouble and two singles each as Washington State crushed Cornell 18-2 and Steve Sharter belted a three run homer as Southern Illinois outslugged Arizona 11-6.

Cory Smith pitched Riverside to a 9-6 victory over Southern Methodist and, in the night game which accompanied Santa Clara-UC Riverside, Stanford scored seven times in the second inning and went on to whip Washington State, 15-7.

Bob Sherwood scattered seven hits and Washington State exploded for seven runs in the third inning to ice its afternoon victory over Cornell. Simpson and Maxwell each had singles in the decisive third frame.

The tournament continues through Saturday.

Wise leads in Decathlon

Gary Wise of Chaffey College held a slim lead after five events in the Southern California Track Decathlon for junior colleges at Mt. San Antonio College Monday.

Wise had 3,184 points, only three more than second place Dani Eitelberg of Hancock with 3,181 and only four points more than Canyons' Russell Nelson who had 3,180.

Steve Cosmos of Fullerton was fourth with 3,042 points and MSAC's Walter Scroggy fifth with 3,015.

Only 300 points separate first and 10th place.

Action was to resume this morning at 9:30 a.m.

Trojans recruit 29 for football squad

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of Southern California has added 29 freshmen and junior college transfers to its 1975 football team, athletic director and football coach John McKay announced Monday.

Ten transfers and two freshmen enrolled for the spring semester and another junior college transfer and 16 freshmen signed letters of intent to attend USC in the fall, McKay said.

Three incoming freshmen received prep All-America honors, defensive lineman Richard Dimler of Bayonne, N.J., a 6-foot-6, 260-pounder; Pat Howell of Fresno, a 6-5, 250-pound offensive lineman, and halfback Paul Rice of Lewisville, Tex., 6-0, 195.

Lynn Cain, a 207-pound tailback who was the state JC player of the year at East Los Angeles College last fall, also started school this term.

Los Angeles may get ABA club next season

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A businessman here says he'll have another go at trying to start an American Basketball Association franchise in Los Angeles.

"We're negotiating with the ABA" and hope to conclude a frachise agreement for the 1975-76 season in the next few weeks, said Los Angeles Land Title Co. president Matt Suddleson.

"I am firmly convinced of the viability of the L.A. market" for an ABA team, Suddleson said Monday.

The businessman said he and his brother Kenneth are heading the group shooting for the franchise. The promoters would not say whether they are seeking an expansion team or hoping to move an existing ABA team here, Suddleson said.

The brothers tried to get an ABA franchise here last year built around Bill Walton, who signed with the National Basketball Association's Portland Trail Blazers instead.

Ontario Hockey Loop begins second round

The second round of the Ontario Hockey Association season begins Wednesday night at the Ontario Ice Bowl when the first-place Flyers play the Bruins and the Kings meet the Canadiens.

In last week's action, the Kings edged the Flyers, 10-9, while the Bruins and Canadiens skated to a 6-6 tie.

Al Checco led the Kings with goals followed by Ken Clifford with three plus one each by Tim Verhelle, Steve Parsiow and Bill Batrus. Vince Nuskin put in four goals for the Flyers. John Berry added three while Bob Branson and Rick Vandenberg with one each.

Ron Kennedy scored three goals for the Bruins as teammates Phil Williams added two and Ron Constantine one. Dave Dennis led the Canadiens with three followed by Jack Caswell, John Carson and Jim Terrel with one apiece.

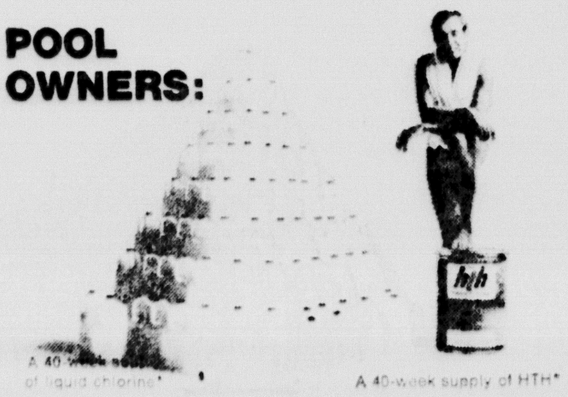
POOL OWNERS:



A 40-week supply of liquid chlorine*

A 40-week supply of HTH*

Here's why you should be using hth now that liquid chlorine costs the same.

HTH is more convenient To chlorinate a stabilized 20,000 gallon pool for 40 weeks takes about 65 gallons of liquid chlorine. Or one 75 lb. drum of HTH.

HTH leaves you more fun time Liquid chlorine requires numerous trips to your pool supply dealer, lugging back empties, wasting time and travel costs. Buy one drum of HTH and spend your time swimming!

HTH is more trouble-free Liquid chlorine raises alkalinity rapidly. HTH has only a minor effect on pH.

SPECIAL TRADE-IN OFFER TO LIQUID BLEACH USERS Bring in a case of 4 empty liquid chlorine gallon containers. We'll give you a 5 lb. or 6½ lb. package of HTH (granular or tablets) at no additional cost! We're that sure you'll be back for more.
Offer expires April 15, 1975

*Estimated for 20,000 gallon pool. Actual results property owner's use, water conditions, weather, chemical application rates.

RAY MIX

Thomas named Elk of Year

Mix elected to head Elks Lodge

Ray Mix was elected exalted ruler for 1975-76 and Edward G. "Ted" Thomas was elected Elk of the Year at the Pomona Elks Lodge 789 meeting last week.

Mix and a slate of new officers, will be installed April 2. An inaugural ball will be held April 5 to which all Elks will be invited.

Thomas was cited for his lodge work, especially his service as chairman of the Elks National Foundation committee.

The foundation was established in 1928 with $100,000 as a trust fund with income to be donated to charity. The fund was swelled to $17 million with more than $6 million being dedicated to charity. Expenditures amount to more than $900,000 a year in humanitarian enterprises.

Other Elks elected to serve with Mix are Fred Van Der Linde, esteemed leading knight; Howrd Hanson, esteemed loyal knight; David Haywood, esteemed lecturing knight; John Morgan, secretary; Don Vincent, treasurer: Guy Russe Jr., tiler; Bob Weddle, esquire; John Allen, assistant esquire; Dick Dempsey, chaplain; Frank Entler, inter guard; Bob Smith, officer at large; Frank Ness, organist; Jack Russell, percussionist; and Bob Mcore, trustee.

New officers will serve until April 1, 1976.
